Warren Promises GOP To Have Streamlined Government

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—A streamlined federal government, free from Communists and bureaucracy alike, was promised by Gov. Earl Warren of California today if the voters in November throw out an "uncooperative" Democratic regime that is "tired of itself and falling apart at the seams."

At the same time the Republican vice-presidential nominee, closing a concentrated, 12-hour Ohio GOP platform convention, warned Russia indirectly not to mistake heated political arguments in this nation as a symbol of disunity in foreign affairs.

Warren moved on in his 14-car special train to Marion, Toledo and Detroit today as the distaff side of the Grand Old Party took over with the annual convention of the Ohio League of Republican Women's Organizations.

The breezy, hearty Californian, welcomed to Columbus in colorful fashion with a parade complete with miners, cowboys, a covered wagon, a colorful float and a blaring band, followed Ohio's Governor Herbert to the rostrum.

Herbert blasted heavily at charges made before the Democratic convention last week by Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, his opponent in the coming election now less than six weeks away.

The two governors spoke after the convention unanimously approved a 26-part platform which deviated in only one particular from the draft released earlier.

The platform committee strengthened the "equality of opportunity" plank to include the words "fair employment practices"—left out of the earlier draft—and promised "legislation designed to promote fair employment practices."

While a half-dozen Progressive Party pickets paraded outside, Warren told some 4,000 ardent Republicans packed in Columbus' ancient Memorial Hall:

"It is high time we have such a streamlining of federal government.

"In recent years, the executive branch has mushroomed until, as of July 1 of this year, it has 1,816 principal component parts, many of which are outright duplications.

"Those 1,816 federal departments and agencies had, on July 1, 2,090,000 federal employes—two-thirds of the total population of the United States at the time we gained our independence as a nation.

"This vast, mystic maze is confusing, not only to those employed in the federal government, but also, and more so, to bewildered citizens who have to transact business with it. Obviously, this topsy-turvy complexity adds tremendously to the cost of government."

Declaring that "the core of the Republican Party has never wavered from American principals," Warren continued:

"It has never catered to Communists. It never will. In these days, when Communist conspiracy is fanning into all parts of the world, when spies, secret agents and doctrinaries are infiltrating into every nook and cranny of our own society, when some of them have found their way into our government itself, it is especially important that we strictly follow the old admonition, 'put nothing but Americans on guard.'

"Under a Republican administration, with Tom Dewey in the White House, there will be no trouble about Communists in the government because Tom Dewey will never let them get into it."

Warren charged that failure of a Democratic administration "breaking open at the seams" to cooperate with Republicans in Congress was responsible for the failure of our foreign policy. He stated:

"We are today unquestionably farther from the just peace we longed for, fought for, and as victors promised the world, than we were on V-J Day."

Nevertheless, he gave indirect warning to the Soviets when he said:

"I hope for the sake of the world that no one on the outside will conclude that, because we debate, we are a divided people.

"Hitler and Mussolini made that tragic mistake, and it brought destruction to them and untold misery to their people. Let others not make the same mistake now.

"We will stand together—Republican shoulder to Democratic shoulder—against any outside influence that seeks to divide, injure, or interfere with our country, our people, or our commitments to insure world peace."

SOUTH AFRICA RAPS WORLD GROUP

DOESN'T SOUND GOOD BUT TASTES 'DELICIOUS'

'Pumpkinjack' Acclaimed As Newest Wonder Beverage

Surrounded by stew kettles, test tubes and sundry other equipment, Circleville's Mayor Thurman I. Miller Friday came up with the solemn pronouncement:

"There is no healthier, smoother or finer drink than Pumpkinjack."

That's what the man said . . .Pumpkinjack.

Speaking not as the chieftain of the city but as president of Pumpkin Show, Inc., Miller explained with a wink in his eye, that he and his Pumpkin Show aides "have completed a long series of tests on this new beverage."

Miller declared that "I'll admit that it doesn't sound good, but judgment must not be made by sound, but by taste. . . .It is definitely delicious, if I may use an understatement."

So convinced that Pumpkinjack is superior to all other drinks made from fruits or vegetables, Miller promptly dispatched a representative to the current Jackson Apple Festival, issuing a challenge to that city's mayor.

"Apple cider does not hold a candle to the squeezin's from a pumpkin," the Circleville chief executive declared. "Non-alcoholic and chockfull of health, Pumpkinjack, I believe, lacks only a little more development in the laboratory before it will become—why, it may turn out to be a virtual elixir from the long-hunted Fountain of Youth."

Whether the Jackson mayor would come jug in hand to match his apple cider against Circleville's Pumpkinjack remained an unanswered question Friday noon.

Another unanswered question Friday noon was whether the Pumpkin Show braintrusters would have sufficient quantities of this rare pumpkin squeezin's for public samplings by the time the annual Circleville extravaganza rolls around Oct. 20.

Meanwhile, Miller and the rest of the local Pumpkin Show officials were proudly praising their new find and even wondering aloud whether the stuff might even replace ordinary cow's milk as the basic food for babies.

Withdrawal From UN Threatened

Assembly Labeled 'Discord Center'

PARIS, Sept. 24—A spokesman for South Africa threatened a possible withdrawal from the United Nations today if the world organization "continues to interfere in the domestic affairs of small nations."

Eric Louw, South African minister of economic affairs, voiced resentment against criticism of South Africa's treatment of Indian nationals residing in the union.

Louw said that in event of UN interference his government would have to consider whether "our national interests are compatible with continued membership."

The delegate of India, Mrs. Pandit, sister of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, is considering issuance of a statement denouncing the alleged "Fascist methods and mentality" of South Africa.

Louw also sniped at the Security Council's record of big power discord which he termed a "breach of faith" with small nations.

* * *

HE SCORED the General Assembly as a "center of discord instead of a world town meeting."

Louw then declared in his warning that "domestic affairs of member states are no concern of the United Nations."

Burma's delegate, who preceded Louw, called on UN members to adopt a pledge that "on no account will they go to war against one another."

The Burmese delegate, UU Ohn, made his plea in a speech at the opening of today's session of the General assembly.

51 FARMERS DIE DAILY

Survey To Start Monday On County Farm Mishaps

Farm accidents kill an estimated 51 persons every day and injure another 9,200 in mishaps that amount each year to more than $1 billion.

With these appalling figures in hand, the U. S. Department of Agriculture will begin a survey Monday in Pickaway and 13 other surrounding counties.

Ralph E. May of Circleville will represent the Department of Agriculture here and he will interview farmers and collect important data about practices and trends in this county.

One important basis of the survey is to measure noticeable changes that are taking place on farms throughout the United States as indicated by reports from about 10,000 farms in 400 counties.

The information May obtains from Pickaway County farmers will be treated confidentially and will be used only in combination with that from other states, agriculture officials said.

* *

FINAL RESULTS of the survey will be used by government officials, state colleges and agriculture agencies interested in the development of plans and programs which benefit farm people.

Type of information May will seek here deals with farm employment, including both the family and hired workers, a record of accidents and wage rates.

The survey to be conducted beginning Monday is needed to record accidents during the period of May through September—the time of most activity on farms.

'Ex-President' Truman Needed As Witness, Claim

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Mildred E. Gillars, "Axis Sally" of the Nazi radio, today pleaded "certainly not guilty" to a charge of treason and was ordered to stand trial Nov. 15.

Miss Gillars' attorney, James J. Laughlin, asked for a postponement of the trial until Jan. 21 because "we will need President Truman as a witness" but he was turned down by Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire, who presided at the arraignment.

Laughlin said he requested the Jan. 21 trial date because the President "will go out of office the day before." The President of the United States is not required to respond to a court subpoena.

Laughlin's announcement that he wanted to call the President as a witness created a stir in the courtroom. When the lawyer made the remark about the President "going out of office," McGuire quickly snapped back that Miss Gillars would stand trial Nov. 15 at 10 a. m.

Ohio To Get Dismal Weekend

The U. S. weather bureau forecast considerable cloudiness and continued cool temperatures at least through Sunday.

Forecasters said 15-mile an hour winds from the northwest will add to the discomfort.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook follows:

"Temperatures will average normal in the east portion and three to four degrees above normal in west. Cool Saturday. Warmer Sunday through Tuesday. Cooler Wednesday. Rain Monday or Tuesday with total amount one-third to one-half inch."

Labor Trouble May Close Plant

MARIETTA, Sept. 24 — The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., today threatened to abandon its $5.5 million Marietta plastics plant unless an agreement is reached in a labor dispute.

Plant Manager Bert S. Taylor notified 220 AFL International Chemical Workers that the plant, which has been closed for six weeks, would be abandoned unless an agreement is reached "in the immediate future."

The Pharis Tire and Rubber Co. recently abandoned its Newark plant under similar circumstances, throwing 1,200 out of work.

Argentine Labor Strike Called

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24—The Argentine Confederation of Labor called a general strike today, protesting an alleged plot against the life of President Juan D. Peron and his wife in which Buenos Aires police implicated a former American official.

A police communique charged that John F. Griffiths, former cultural attache at the U. S. embassy, was involved in the conspiracy.

Another GOP Spy Prober Raps Clark's 'Secrecy Ban'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 — A House spy prober today accused Attorney General Tom Clark of clamping a secrecy ban on FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover because "they're afraid of the names he will name."

The accusation was hurled by Rep. Nixon (R) Calif., a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee which now is investigating Soviet atomic espionage in the United States.

Nixon became the second member of Congress in two days to charge that Clerk has refused to allow Hoover to testify before Congress. Sen. Ferguson, (R) Mich., chairman of the Senate investigating committee, made a similar accusation yesterday.

In reply to Ferguson, Clark declared that he "never refused his permission and Sen. Ferguson knows it." The attorney general charged the senator with issuing "reckless, misleading and inflammatory" statements in an attempt to win reelection.

* * *

NIXON claimed that "Clark will not allow Hoover to come before a congressional committee and tell the truth about espionage because of the political consequences."

The Californian told reporters: "His testimony would bring forth additional revelations which would shock the people even more than in the past.

English Lord Lashes Soviets

LONDON, Sept. 24—Lord Vansittart, former diplomatic adviser to the British foreign office, delivered a sharp attack on Soviet policies in the House of Lords today.

Vansittart said:

"Stalin means war unless checked. There is no difference between Stalin and Hitler except that one is dead. If you trust Stalin, he will claw your face. His record is strewn with broken agreements.

"There is no reason why we should submit any more to this niagara of sewage from Moscow."

BERMUDA, Sept. 24—American Air Force and naval planes were sent away to safer haven today as the hurricane which ripped across Cuba and part of Florida approached Bermuda.

Navy officials predicted that the full force of the storm will not strike the island.

Forecasts are that the island will be buffeted by 80-mile-an-hour winds. Air Force weather planes continued to fly in the hurricane area to chart the movement of the storm.

DEMOCRAT JIBES IGNORED

Truman, Dewey Each Rap Idea Of Wallace Support

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 24—President Truman renewed his onslaught on the Republican 80th Congress in an early morning speech at San Diego today.

The chief executive told an enthusiastic throng of 20,000:

"The Republican 80th Congress isn't interested in your welfare. They are out to sabotage the West."

The President said that if Southern Californians are interested in their own welfare they will vote the Democratic ticket on Nov. 2.

In his address, Mr. Truman urged California liberals to "think again" before they cast a "wasted vote" for Henry A. Wallace, Progressive Party presidential candidate.

There were numerous film celebrities present. One of them, Ronald Reagan, acted as master of ceremonies.

The President blasted the Republicans. He asserted that their ideal was "big business first."

* * *

HE DESCRIBED the current campaign as a championship fight and he said that nobody, meaning the Republicans, "is going to win this fight by running away from the record or ducking the issues."

His main effort was directed toward those liberals who may be tempted to switch to Wallace. It was based on indications that the Los Angeles area is one of the country's strongest Wallace sections.

The chief executive warned Wallace supporters that "Communists are guiding and using the third party," and he declared flatly that Wallace has no chance of winning.

To those tempted by third party promises the President addressed this appeal:

"To those liberals, I would say in all sincerity: Think again.

"The fact that the Communists are guiding and using the third party shows that this party does not represent American ideals.

"A vote for the third party can only weaken the efforts of the Democratic Party to build a healthy nation and a peaceful world.

"A vote for the third party plays into the hands of the Republican forces of reaction, whose aims are directly opposed

Paris Hears West Is 'Assured' Russia Plans No War In Berlin

PARIS, Sept. 24 — The Western Allies have been "assured" that Russia will not resort to war to drive them from Berlin.

This was revealed today by authoritative quarters as the foreign ministers of America, Britain and France awaited a Soviet reply to their latest notes on the Berlin situation.

Soviet Premier Stalin himself was said to have given the Western envoys in Moscow assurances that "Russia has no intention of employing military force" to settle the Berlin problem.

At the same time, however, the West received a clear impression during the Moscow talks that the Soviet government will not agree to restoration of conditions which prevailed in Berlin before they imposed the blockade unless the Western powers postpone plans for establishing a separate state in Western Germany.

As long as the Western Powers pursue a policy of setting up a separate German regime in the west the Soviet government will endeavor to squeeze them out of effective control in their sectors of Berlin by all measures short of war.

Russia is pictured as willing to effect a partial lifting of the blockade if the Westerners acquiesce in Soviet control of all of Berlin's economy.

Since the Western Powers are not willing to make such a concession it is anticipated that Soviet pressure against them in the former German capital will continue.

Diplomats Say Reds In Parley

LONDON, Sept. 24— Diplomatic circles speculated today that the reported meeting of Communist leaders in the Crimea may produce a joint reply to the West's latest note on the Berlin crisis.

Information reaching the British foreign office has indicated that top Communist officials in Eastern Europe are now conferring with Premier Stalin.

A foreign office spokesman said that Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov, Romanian Foreign Minister Ana Pauker and Czech President Klement Gottwald were very likely among the conferees.

95 Pct. County Students Have Received 'Shots'

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, reported Friday approximately 95 percent of Pickaway County's school children have been immunized.

Recently completing a survey and immunization trip to the schools, Blackburn stated he had immunized 282 students this year.

The total 95 percent figure was established by a check of the number of students in the system who had been previously innoculated.

While on his immunization trip, Blackburn and his health nurse, Mrs. Helen Pickens, inspected sanitary conditions at all county schools and reported all satisfactory. Samples of water taken from each school were tested and all found pure.

* * *

NEXT WEEK the commissioner is to begin physical examinations, checking all first graders and new students. All who plan to participate in school athletics will be examined, also.

Blackburn said there was less skin disease among the students this year than had been noted for the past several years.

Greek Commies Take Beating

ATHENS, Sept. 24 — Greek Communists were reported today to have suffered a heavy defeat while attempting a mass attack on government troops in the Kastoria region of Northwest Greece.

An attacking force of 5,000 guerrillas was said to have been beaten off, with 600 killed and 150 captured.

Red-Licensed Papers Banned By Americans

BERLIN, Sept. 24—The U. S. military government today banned all Soviet-licensed newspapers and magazines from the American zone of Germany.

The order, issued by Deputy Military Governor Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, does not affect the U. S. sector of Berlin.

Hays indicated that the decree was in retaliation for a similar Soviet action last June 9, when the Russians set up a Russian-controlled monopoly to handle newspaper distribution.

The result was tantamount to a banning of Western publications from Soviet-occupied Germany.

Hays said that Russian officials had "replied unsatisfactorily" to one American protest and ignored a second, thus forcing the retaliatory move.

Yesterday, German news dealers in Western Berlin agreed to stop distributing Soviet-run periodicals.

This action likewise stemmed from Soviet and German Communist efforts to drive Western publications from East Berlin. Communist squads have destroyed Western newspapers and threatened dealers.

Since the Western Powers are not willing to make such a concession it is anticipated that Soviet pressure against them in the former German capital will continue.

95 Pct. County Students Have Received 'Shots'

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, reported Friday approximately 95 percent of Pickaway County's school children have been immunized.

Recently completing a survey and immunization trip to the schools, Blackburn stated he had immunized 282 students this year.

The total 95 percent figure was established by a check of the number of students in the system who had been previously inoculated.

While on his immunization trip, Blackburn and his health nurse, Mrs. Helen Pickens, inspected sanitary conditions at all county schools and reported all satisfactory. Samples of water taken from each school were tested and all found pure.

• • •

NEXT WEEK the commissioner is to begin physical examinations, checking all first graders and new students. All who plan to participate in school athletics will be examined, also.

Blackburn said there was less skin disease among the students this year than had been noted for the past several years.

Ohio To Get Dismal Weekend

A dismal autumn weekend is the outlook for Ohio.

The U. S. weather bureau forecast considerable cloudiness and continued cool temperatures at least through Sunday.

Forecasters said 15-mile an hour winds from the northwest will add to the discomfort.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook follows:

"Temperatures will average normal in the east portion and three to four degrees above normal in west. Cool Saturday. Warmer Sunday through Tuesday. Cooler Wednesday. Rain Monday or Tuesday with total amount one-third to one-half inch."

Labor Trouble May Close Plant

MARIETTA, Sept. 24 — The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., today threatened to abandon its $5.5 million Marietta plastics plant unless an agreement is reached in a labor dispute.

Plant Manager Bert S. Taylor notified 220 AFL International Chemical Workers that the plant, which has been closed for six weeks, would be abandoned unless an agreement is reached "in the immediate future."

The Pharis Tire and Rubber Co. recently abandoned its Newark plant under similar circumstances, throwing 1,200 out of work.

Argentine Labor Strike Called

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24—The Argentine Confederation of Labor called a general strike today, protesting an alleged plot against the life of President Juan D. Peron and his wife in which Buenos Aires police implicated a former American official.

A police communique charged that John F. Griffiths, former cultural attache at the U. S. embassy, was involved in the conspiracy.

English Lord Lashes Soviets

LONDON, Sept. 24—Lord Vansittart, former diplomatic adviser to the British foreign office, delivered a sharp attack on Soviet policies in the House of Lords today.

Vansittart said:

"Stalin means war unless checked. There is no difference between Stalin and Hitler except that one is dead. If you trust Stalin, he will claw your face. His record is strewn with broken agreements.

"There is no reason why we should submit any more to this niagara of sewage from Moscow."

14,000 Strike

ROME, Sept. 24—An estimated 14,000 Italian municipal workers in Rome went on strike today demanding higher wages.

Hurricane Due In Bermuda

BERMUDA, Sept. 24—American Air Force and naval planes were sent away to safer haven today as the hurricane which ripped across Cuba and part of Florida approached Bermuda.

Navy officials predicted that the full force of the storm will not strike the island.

Forecasts are that the island will be buffeted by 80-mile-an-hour winds. Air Force weather planes continued to fly in the hurricane area to chart the movement of the storm.

Diplomats Say Reds In Parley

LONDON, Sept. 24— Diplomatic circles speculated today that the reported meeting of Communist leaders in the Crimea may produce a joint reply to the West's latest note on the Berlin crisis.

Information reaching the British foreign office has indicated that top Communist officials in Eastern Europe are now conferring with Premier Stalin.

A foreign office spokesman said that Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov, Romanian Foreign Minister Ana Pauker and Czech President Klement Gottwald were very likely among the conferees.

Greek Commies Take Beating

ATHENS, Sept. 24 — Greek Communists were reported today to have suffered a heavy defeat while attempting a mass attack on government troops in the Kastoria region of Northwest Greece.

An attacking force of 5,000 guerrillas was said to have been beaten off, with 600 killed and 150 captured.

Red-Licensed Papers Banned By Americans

BERLIN, Sept. 24—The U. S. military government today banned all Soviet-licensed newspapers and magazines from the American zone of Germany.

The order, issued by Deputy Military Governor Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, does not affect the U. S. sector of Berlin.

Hays indicated that the decree was in retaliation for a similar Soviet action last June 9, when the Russians set up a Russian-controlled monopoly to handle newspaper distribution.

The result was tantamount to a banning of Western publications from Soviet-occupied Germany.

Hays said that Russian officials had "replied unsatisfactorily" to one American protest and ignored a second, thus forcing the retaliatory move.

Yesterday, German news dealers in Western Berlin agreed to stop distributing Soviet-run periodicals.

This action likewise stemmed from Soviet and German Communist efforts to drive Western publications from East Berlin. Communist squads have destroyed Western newspapers and threatened dealers.

Withdrawal From UN Threatened

scheduled for this afternoon suddenly was cancelled.

A Soviet official notified Assembly President Evatt that Vishinsky was 'indisposed" and that the speech would be made tomorrow, barring a continuation of the deputy foreign minister's illness.

Vishinsky, hatchetman of the Soviet diplomatic corps, spent his day at the Russian embassy, putting the finishing touches on his address. Indications were that it will take more than an hour and will be another Vishinsky "blast" against the West.

* * *

RUSSIAN circles meanwhile confirmed that yesterday's speech by American Secretary of State Marshall will cause Vishinsky to inject an even tougher tone in his address.

Open hostility toward Marshall grew in Soviet ranks after he warned that America will not compromise on basic principles.

Marshall appears to have become the No. 1 target of the Russian bloc as the result of his firm address before the United Nations General Assembly yesterday.

Marshall's pronouncement regarding basic principles was accepted as the keynote of the Western Powers by non-Soviet members of the world body.

Although his strong address was couched in conciliatory language and he appealed to the Russians to employ UN charter provisions for the settlement of controversies, there is hardly any among the delegates not aware that a grave crossroads decision on world policy is being reached.

Jap Bureaucrats Still Active

TOKYO, Sept. 24—Labor's fight to preserve the right of strike and collective bargaining for government workers has temporarily obscured one of the occupation's most important programs—reform of Japan's feudalistic bureaucracy.

Last July, Gen. Douglas MacArthur wrote Premier Hitoshi Ashida suggesting revision of Japan's public service law and proposing action to prohibit government workers from striking or bargaining collectively. Since then labor has made it one of the hottest issues since the occupation began.

Three years after surrender, occupation directives have not begun to shake the bureaucrats from their deeply entrenched positions.

Autopsy Ordered In Man's Death

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—Franklin County sheriff's office awaited the results today of an autopsy report on the body of a 49-year-old Columbus man found floating in the Scioto river yesterday.

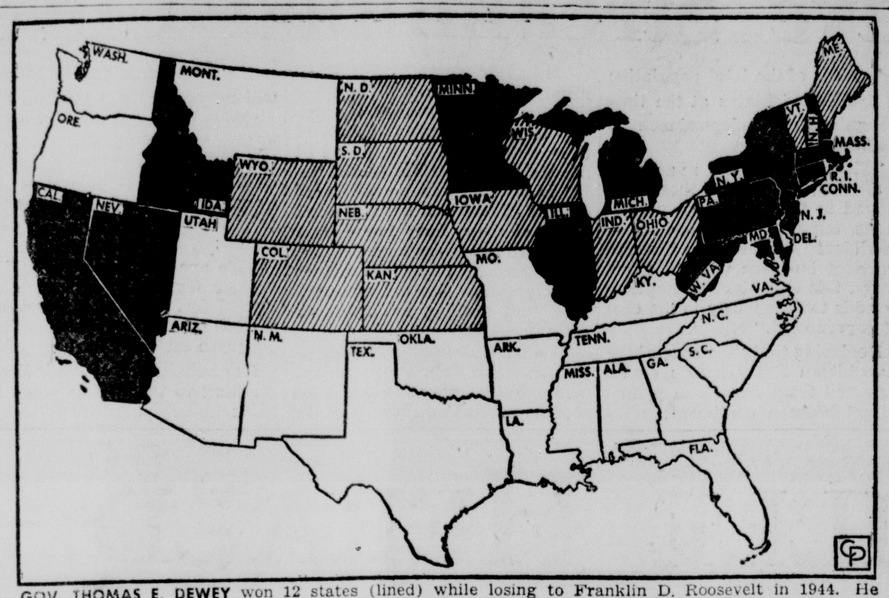

The dead man, identified as Elmer Reece Campbell, a bait supplier for the Hudson Bait Co., was discovered by two 13-year-old boys three miles south of Columbus.

Identification was made by one of the victim's sons, 29-year-old Dewey Campbell of Columbus.

Pirinsky was seized in the immigration and naturalization offices. He gave as his New York address the office of the congress.

to the aims of American liberals."

Meanwhile, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey picked Los Angeles as the place to swing on domestic Communists and launch his personal drive for California's 25 electoral votes.

Dewey carried his GOP presidential campaign into Southern California—where tonight he will speak in Hollywood Bowl—again just 24 hours behind President Truman.

His special train headed for stops at Barstow and San Bernardino, after the New York governor won a rousing reception in normally Democratic Arizona.

* * *

SOME 18,000 persons cheered the Republican presidential candidate in Phoenix last night when he declared that the United States must protect the "decisive secret" of the atomic bomb until other countries join us in "good faith."

Dewey said that only then should government monopoly of atomic research be lifted.

He further emphasized the reserved tone of his campaign by welcoming the support of both Democrats and independents at Phoenix, and telling his audience, "this is not a partisan, political campaign."

The Republican candidate's sally on the Communist issue was forecast in an announcement that he would discuss America's system of freedom and oppportunity and "what we must do to strengthen it in the face of the worldwide challenge of aggressive totalitarianism."

But it was considered unlikely that he would rehash the congressional charges of Communism in Hollywood, which shook the movie industry just a year ago.

Neither was he expected to respond to President Truman's jibes. Dewey aides have made it clear their candidate will not be drawn into a slugging match with Mr. Truman.

The President declared that the committee's spy investigation merely was an attempt to draw a red herring across the trail of congressional neglect.

The committee called a meeting today to decide whether to dispense with public hearings on atomic espionage and issue instead a formal report to the House summing up the evidence and its recommendations.

On the committee's agenda for consideration also was a subcommittee recommendation that Steve Nelson, Communist Party chairman in Western Pennsylvania, be cited for contempt of Congress for refusing to testify on grounds of constitutional immunity.

MIAMI, Sept. 24—Florida began its return to normal today as the devastating hurricane which caused more than $25 million damage swept on toward Bermuda.

The Red Cross said 130-mile-an-hour winds wiped out 75 percent of the tiny fishing village of Flamingo, on Cape Sable at the southwestern tip of Florida.

Key West, however, appeared to have suffered the heaviest damage as repair crews started cleaning up the wreckage.

Officials estimated losses in the island city reached $1 million. Some 1,000 trees were felled and more than 100 pleasure craft and fishing boats were sunk or wrecked.

Cops Go On Big Drunk, Flunk Alcoholic Tests

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — Two Cleveland policemen got good and drunk yesterday — and before a crowd, too, but they won't face departmental charges.

Their drinking spree was conducted according to scientific regulations. The two subjects reacted, however, like a pair of Alcoholics Anonymous fugitives out for a good time.

The test was carried on in a clinic of the 10th Annual Ohio State Safety Conference. Title of the clinic was, "What's The Load Limit?"

What exactly is the limit was to be determined by the use of a card-sorting test and with the use of a "Drunkometer," a Hager breath test equipment device.

Detective John Andes and Patrolman Walter Schaffer were the officers used as "guinea pigs," and they didn't seem to mind in the least.

They drank six ounces of 86.8 proof bonded whiskey over a period of slightly more than an hour. The drinks were taken mixed with soda, the soda being used to speed up absorption of the alcohol.

* * *

AT THE END of the period both men obviously were under the influence of alcohol, as test with the Drunkometer showed.

After the first drink both smacked their lips and smiled. Andes continued to smile after the second drink, but Schaffer's eyes watered slightly and his face turned a slight pink.

The pink became a bright red for Schaffer and Andes fairly beamed after the third drink.

Both men became quite jovial after the fourth trip to the bottle and cooperated willingly in the first Drunkometer test. As directed by Sgt. James Dodge of the Cleveland force, the men blew up balloons Air from the balloons then was injected into a solution of potassium promanganate and sulphuric acid.

The amount of breath required to decolorize the fluid then was compared with a table to determine the amount of intoxication.

Andres' breath contained .085 percent alcohol. Schaffer's contained .15, which placed him right at the point of intoxication.

However, results of the card-sorting were not as expected.

While sober, each man had sorted an ordinary deck of playing cards into suits at his fastest speed. Andes' time was two minutes and 12 seconds, Schaffer's three minutes and 44 seconds.

After four drinks, Andes was timed in six minutes and 26 seconds. Schaffer's time was two minutes and 58 seconds.

* * *

AFTER THE sixth drink, both men were asked to walk before the group of safety officials from various cities who had gathered for the test.

Both staggered and found it difficult to stand up while remaining stationary.

When asked to repeat, "she sells seashells by the seashore," Schaffer replied, "she shells she by the shore she, er, ah, sea shells shore she—ah, I give up." Andes repeated quite easily, "rugged rubber baby buggy bumpers."

On the final test Schaffer's alcoholic content was .18. Andes' was .135. When last seen the two officers were being led toward the nearest coffee shop.

Improper feeding, crowding, and exposure to bad weather during transportation are important causes of shipping fever in livestock.

Leaping Auto Chases Girls In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — Mrs. Helen Havel may have a hard time persuading her three daughters to go to the bakery with her next time, and all because of a parked car which didn't stay parked.

The three Euclid girls were waiting for their mother in front of a Cleveland bakery yesterday wen a parked car was struck by another auto and thrown onto the sidewalk. The car struck two of the girls and scratched the other.

The auto driven by John Mickovic, 37, of Cleveland, struck the other car with such force the parked vehicle was thrown over the curb and approximately 40 feet down the sidewalk where the girls were standing, police said.

Twins Judy and Janet Havel, 6½, were hit and thrown to the sidewalk and Barbara, 9, was scratched as she dived into a hedge.

The girls were treated at Emergency Clinic hospital and released. Mickovic also was treated and released.

Police said Mickovic explained he swerved to avoid hitting a boy on a bicycle when the accident occurred.

Irate Woman Kicks Policeman

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—A 42-year-old woman was held in Cuyahoga County jail today on charges of intoxication and assault and battery.

Police said the woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Julia Wilson of Cleveland, punched and kicked Patrolman Joseph M. Eberhard, 47, after he refused to permit her to drive because she was intoxicated.

Eberhard said he stopped the automobile, driven by Dewey Kelley, 47, of Cleveland, when he saw the car weaving. Kelley got out at the patrolman's request but Mrs. Wilson became belligerent, Eberard declared.

New Hearing Set For Satira

HAVANA, Sept. 24—The attorney for Patricia (Satira) Schmidt said today he will seek suspension of a Cuban supreme court hearing on the Toledo dancer's 15-year prison sentence for the slaying of John Lester Mee.

The lawyer, Carlos Mencio, said the hearing has been set for Sept. 28.

It was learned that the lawyer representing Mee's family will initiate a similar move. Should the court agree to suspend the appeal hearing it is believed Mencio will attempt to secure a direct pardon for Satira.

Warren Tops Taft's Barbs

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—Gov. Earl Warren of California went Ohio's own Sen. Robert A. Taft one better last night—when it came to shredding the opposition Democratic party to bits.

In his keynote address in the afternoon, Taft charged the Democratic party was splitting into three segments—the southern Dixiecrats, a conservative wing, and a radical wing.

Warren last night said the party was falling into not three but four parts—"the Wallace party, the party of the South, the party of the big machines, and the party of the true progressives."

Canton Lady Loses 36 Lbs. Says Rennel Is Fine

Mrs. M. Elder, 1419 5th St. NE. Canton, Ohio writes us, "I am 38 years of age and when I started taking Rennel Concentrate I weighed 174 lbs. Now I weigh 138 and my dress size has changed from 20½ to 16. I like Rennel for reducing for it does not upset my stomach as other preparations have."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Rennel.

Divorce Ends 1925 Marriage

On grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, Helen Juanita Morgan has been granted a divorce from Kenneth G. Morgan in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The 23-year-old marriage began April 25, 1925, in Greenup, Ky., and the Morgans have four minor children, ages 19, 17, 11 and 7.

While the two parties involved agreed to a property settlement, Morgan also agreed to pay $20 per week toward the support of the children.

2 Wives File Actions Here Asking Divorces

Petitions for divorce have been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by two wives.

William M. Harman is being sued for separation by his wife, Bernice G. Harman, on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Her petition declares they were married April 15, 1944 in Greenup, Ky., and that they have one child, aged 3.

Mrs. Harman is asking the court for custody of the child and reasonable alimony.

The second petition was lodged by Sadie M. Hettinger who is seeking to end her seven-month-old marriage to Paul F. Hettinger.

According to the petition, the Hettingers were married Feb. 28, 1948 in Adelphi and have a five-months-old child. The defendant is accused of gross neglect of duty.

Mrs. Hettinger wants custody of the child, alimony and possession of the household goods.

New Hearing Set For Satira

HAVANA, Sept. 24—The attorney for Patricia (Satira) Schmidt said today he will seek suspension of a Cuban supreme court hearing on the Toledo dancer's 15-year prison sentence for the slaying of John Lester Mee.

The lawyer, Carlos Mencio, said the hearing has been set for Sept. 28.

It was learned that the lawyer representing Mee's family will initiate a similar move. Should the court agree to suspend the appeal hearing it is believed Mencio will attempt to secure a direct pardon for Satira.

Warren Tops Taft's Barbs

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—Gov. Earl Warren of California went Ohio's own Sen. Robert A. Taft one better last night—when it came to shredding the opposition Democratic party to bits.

In his keynote address in the afternoon, Taft charged the Democratic party was splitting into three segments—the southern Dixiecrats, a conservative wing, and a radical wing.

Warren last night said the party was falling into not three but four parts—"the Wallace party, the party of the South, the party of the big machines, and the party of the true progressives."

Canton Lady Loses 36 Lbs. Says Rennel Is Fine

Mrs. M. Elder, 1419 5th St. NE, Canton, Ohio writes us, "I am 38 years of age and when I started taking Rennel Concentrate I weighed 174 lbs. Now I weigh 138 and my dress size has changed from 20½ to 16. I like Rennel for reducing for it does not upset my stomach as other preparations have."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Rennel.

GERMANS LOOK ON

AN AMERICAN teacher, Miss Marion Petraskis of Chicago, who has taught in the American high school in Frankfurt, Germany, for the last two years, claims that students in the German schools would like to see the adoption of American ways by their native institutions.

Teachers, parents and students have cooperated in reproducing American schools as far as possible in this foreign setting. The Germans are amazed at the cheerful informality of the American classrooms, which contrasts strongly with the rigid discipline of the lecture system with which they are familiar. The football games, with their cheering sections, and other forms of intra-mural and interscholastic athletic contests intrigue the German students, for whom life is a grim affair.

A strong characteristic of systems such as that set up by the Nazis in Germany is their narrow insistence on iron-clad discipline. No humor ever creeps into their proceedings, and the lighter side of life is sternly suppressed. It is good for the Germans to come to the realization that serious study can be accomplished side by side with good cheer and informality. Modifications of their regimentation might make the student and citizen alike a less easy prey to dictatorship.

PROTECTING MEDIATORS

RUNNING through official United Nations reaction to the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte is a current of opinion, expressed in a demand by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, that the United Nations should have means to guard the lives of its mediators and other working representatives.

Common sense is on the side of this idea. By the nature of their work, mediators and investigators under the United Nations usually will be called on to go into areas of violence. Where violence has flared to such extent that the international organization must intercede, local protection for United Nations representatives frequently may be lacking, and of dubious value at best.

The strongest guard for mediators would not rule out the possibility of assassination, which may be the act of a fanatic who is completely reckless of his own life. But the dangers of the mediator's work could be reduced to a minimum.

This argument may be added to others in favor of some kind of armed force for the United Nations. Whether it is called police guard or military unit of whatever, such a force should be established.

This is a big country, but the individual's vote may still determine results. In the recent Texas primary for senator 1,000,000 votes were cast, and the victor, Congressman Lyndon Johnson, won by just 87 votes. How many Texans neglected to vote, saying, "My vote won't make any difference?"

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Mr. Truman has missed the tone of the hour. This is not the time to "give them hell." It is a time for a serious and sober discussion of national affairs. It is not a time for a McKinley-Bryan campaign, nor even for a Roosevelt-Willkie campaign. It is a time for Lincoln-Douglas debates.

Let me cite one reason:

At the moment that Mr. Truman is giving them hell—as he put it—American delegates are meeting with delegations of all nations to continue efforts to reach a peace. It is three years since the war ended but there is no peace. In fact, we may be very close to a fighting war. The Russians may decide to push us out of Berlin at any moment and should they do it, we shall either have to fight or suffer defeat and one is as bad as the other. It is a very sobering thought that we are, in this September, 1948, at the climactic moment of World War II.

Under our Constitution, we have to hold a general election this year, to choose a President, the whole body of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate. No election could have been held at a worse time. But there it is and decent men make the most of it without degrading themselves or their country. Unfortunately, year after year, the elections become more vaudevillian. There are many explanations for this trend but the trend itself is too obvious not to cause distress.

Earl Warren, the Republican candidate for vice-president, set the high note for this campaign when he recognized that while the two-party system is essential to the American political structure, it must be recognized that there is good in both parties, that both have served America well. He did not attack President Truman; he did not vituperate. He was calm, dignified and statesmanlike. He followed the course set by Governor Dewey and so ably pursued by Harold Stassen in his Detroit speech. It was an encouraging tone and gave some hope of a campaign on issues not on wisecracks.

It would be to the best interests of the United States if President Truman adopted a similar lofty approach to his campaign. After all, America is, at this moment in human history, the central nation of the world, and Harry Truman is its President. True, he is also a candidate, but as President, he must uphold the dignity of his office and of his nation. This, as Jesse Jones so ably put it, he is incapable of doing. It does not suit his notion. Giving them hell—as he put it—is more to his liking.

Yet, we must consider that should we be faced by a crisis at Berlin, he will have to appeal to the entire American people for unity, for total backing of whatever policy he designs to pursue.

He will have to have Republican and Democratic support as well as the support of those so-called liberals and progressives whom he is trying to wean away from Henry Wallace. He will have to have the support of management and the workingman as well as of the labor leaders and labor union careerists to whom he is so devoted.

Penicillin Used Successfully In Treating Osteomyelitis

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

OSTEOMYELITIS or infection of the bone has always been notoriously stubborn and difficult to treat. Children afflicted in this way were particularly to be pitied. Many a little victim has, in the past, spent as much as a year in the hospital without being completely healed even after numerous, painful operations. All too frequently, the slow fire of the infection destroyed so much bone that the child was condemned to limp through life with one leg shorter than the other.

Today, penicillin and other germ-fighting drugs have revolutionized the treatment of this dread disorder, making healing speedier and much more sure.

Plan of Treatment

In the plan of treatment used at the Mayo Clinic by Dr. Frederick M. Graham and his co-workers, the main attack on the disease is still surgical and involves cutting away of the infected bone, but the use of penicillin and other drugs has made all the difference in the success of the operation and the rate of healing.

Penicillin is given for from three to seven days before the operation. In some cases sulfathiazole is also given and other measures used to build up the patient. These include the injection of whole blood into a vein if the patient is suffering from anemia.

After the infected bone is cut away, the area is washed with a solution of penicillin. In most instances, the wound is closed at the time of operation, though sometimes where infection is severe it may be necessary to provide for the drainage of infected material.

Following Operation

In every case the penicillin is continued following the operation. Streptomycin may also be used in certain cases, depending on the type of germs responsible for the infection, since some kinds of trouble-makers may be eliminated more quickly with this drug than with penicillin.

This type of treatment makes possible a more thorough cutting away of infected bone because danger of spreading the infection is eliminated by the penicillin. Furthermore, the one operative wound may be closed, thus decreasing the number of painful changes of dressings and the length of the patient's stay in the hospital. It would appear, too, that with this method of treatment, the number of cures is greater.

Form of Treatment

The other form of treatment employed in this condition is what is known as the open method. In such cases, the operative wound is drained. Of course, when drainage is necessary, the dressings must be frequently changed and healing may go on at a slower rate.

Osteomyelitis causes fever, pain in the affected area and some swelling of the tissues. The diagnosis can be definitely made by X-ray examination of the bone.

It seems quite certain that in penicillin, streptomycin, and the sulfonamide drugs we have our best weapons against this disabling disease.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: For what purpose is dexedrine used?

Answer: Dexedrine has been employed recently to aid in reducing weight, since it seems to have some effect in controlling the appetite. However, it should be utilized only under the direction of the physician in the dose which he prescribes.

MARRY for MONEY

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful Gail "Rusty" Rogers, New York model, loves Sam Meredith passionately. She wants him, all the fun and excitement that goes with his career as a newspaper reporter. But, with restless, adventure-loving Sam Gail knows there would be no real home life, no security. She is frightened by the poverty of her childhood and so makes up her mind to "Marry for Money." After a gay two-some dinner in Greenwich Village, Sam and Gail repair to her small apartment, shared with two other girls, and once more argue out their marriage problem. Presently Sam demands to know whether Gail is angling for the wealthy Brad Spencer and she tells him very frankly that she is. Sam leaves in a rage, and Gail cries herself to sleep.

CHAPTER FOUR

GIVE OVER, said Gail's heart urgently, take the gamble, what are promises, made a lifetime ago? No one's happy for long, you're entitled to as much happiness as you can get, aren't you? Sam's your guy, you've known that from the first time you set eyes on him.

She wanted Sam Meredith; the crazy jokes they shared, the warmth and excitement . . . she wanted the mounting challenge of their sudden, stormy quarrels, their reconciliations, as sudden and complete. She wanted the easy response of her senses, young, ardent . . . the illusion that, with him, she need never again be lonely or afraid. But her mind rejected him, when they were not together. She could not think clearly, with Sam, except on the surface.

Her mind did not want Sam at all; his moods and tempers, his unreliability, his willful restlessness.

She had met his divorced wife before Sam returned from Europe . . . at a party one night, twenty people sitting around a crowded living room . . .

Betty was small, fair, childlike, wearing new happiness for anyone to see. Her husband was a pleasant, grave young man. Gail had liked them both.

Someone spoke of Sam, of a dispatch over his by-line, and someone else hunted up the paper. And Betty had touched her husband's hand and smiled; it was as if she had said, Don't mind, it's all over.

"Sorry," said the man who had spoken of Sam, "I forgot," and Betty had said, "It doesn't matter."

She had explained matters a little to Gail, sitting beside her on a big couch with sagging springs.

"I was married to Sam Meredith," she said, "for three years . . . we were divorced just before the war . . . I met Peter shortly after . . . people forget, I suppose, because Sam never seemed married, to anyone."

Betty had stopped working after her marriage to Peter. She had been on a fashion magazine for young women. The second time Gail saw her they met at a cosmetic counter, around two o'clock on a spring day and neither had lunched. So they had gone into Hick's, found a table and sat there talking for some time, over salads and iced tea.

Gail had asked idly, "Do you miss your job?"

"No," Betty told her. "I never wanted to work, really. I'm not the type. I'm that peculiar creature, a domestic woman. I like to cook and run a house and raise a family." She was older than Gail, she have been twenty-eight or so, but she looked very young. She had flushed, a little, and added, smiling, "I've begun . . . that is, in a few months I shall be raising a family . . . I hope it's twins."

Gail remembered laughing, and saying she hoped so, too.

"Sam never wanted children," said Betty. "He never wanted a home; he never wanted a wife."

"He sounds very selfish," said Gail, who didn't much care for the intimate confidence which come so easily to many women.

"You can say that again," Betty had assured her. "I couldn't take it, after a while, never knowing where he was nor what he was doing. I lived in a boarding house in Reno and cried steadily for six weeks. What a dope! But then I didn't know I'd meet Peter . . . not in Reno, but back here, at my aunt's, of all places. He was her insurance broker."

"Didn't your husband mind . . . about the divorce, I mean?"

"He asked for it," said Betty. "He wanted to be free . . . as if he had ever behaved as if he were anything else . . . there was a war coming up, he said . . . such an original reason for asking for a divorce."

Now Gail turned on her pillow, and clenched her sopping handkerchief. She had seen Betty . . . since . . . Betty knew about her and Sam; everyone knew. Betty had warned her.

Funny, the excuses you made, the illusions you fostered . . . all so simple, with such clarity. You said, Betty hadn't been the right woman for him. It was as easy as that. You went on from there, excusing, condoning, embroidering . . . With the right woman, Sam would be satisfied to settle down, it was only because he had been unhappy that he had done the things which Betty had told her . . . if he had done them . . . it was common sense to discount half of what an ex-wife said . . . three-quarterrs . . .

If he drank, if there had been other women, it was because he wasn't happy.

That had been a brief illusion, it hadn't lasted long; just until Sam had begun his arguments against marriage . . . which was, he said, as everyone knew now an entirely artificial institution.

She thought, I'll get up and bathe my eyes and take a bromide or something. But the girls would hear her, Evie was a very light sleeper and would patter in, asking anxiously, Are you ill, Gail, what's the matter?

She forced herself to lie still, but she felt cold, the crazy, chilly sensation starting with her feet, creeping up slowly like a little death, until she was shivering under the blankets.

She closed her hands, taut, tense, experiencing a most bitter loneliness, a forlorn bereavement. And presently slept, without warning, and toward morning, dreamed.

She did not know where she was, the outline was vague, there was only uncertainty. The place could have been anywhere: a dingy hotel bedroom: a room in a boardinghouse; a back bedroom and bath, let to respectful people . . . the smell was there, always the same smell: cooking and dust, face powder, soap . . . it was cold, with a damp, frosty shivering; or perhaps it rained in long gray streaks against unwashed windowpanes, gusty and slashing or in a dispirited, halfhearted way; and now it was hot, with a brassy sun and the feeling that the roof was too close overhead . . . In the dream, discomfort shifted to discomfort, train wheels revolved, and someone said loudly, "It's no use," and someone else said gently, "I am afraid there is very little use," and in a room which she could not see there was the sound of difficult, loud breathing . . .

Then it changed, and she could feel the hairbrush, brushing ceaselessly through the tangles, brushing the pain out and the shine in, she could hear the voice saying, "You're all I have, honey, you were worth it all." She could hear the voice saying, "Remember, a hundred strokes a day" . . . saying, "Promise me, promise me, promise me" . . . while the hands, strong and inexorable, went on brushing, brushing . . .

She woke, sweating, her heart pounding, and it was morning and she could hear Pat skittering around the kitchen, she smelled coffee, she heard Evie crying wildly, "My last pair of nylons . . . that would happen today!"

Gail sat up and took her head in her hands. Why do you have to dream, asleep and waking? But your waking dreams are of your own volition, and are sometimes as revealing as those which come by night.

She got out of bed with an effort, put her feet in mules, reached for her robe, and then opened her door. "Hi," she said, and Evie came to stand with the snagged stockings in her hand and say, "I thought you were never going to wake."

Gail asked, "What do you mean, your last pair? I don't know what you do with stockings, you'd think you lived in a bramble bush. I can let you have another pair, Evie."

Pat called, "You up, Gail? How about some coffee?"

Evie went into the tiny kitchen and Gail followed. There was a little range, a sink, a table and cupboard, two chairs and a stool. Gail sat on the stool and drank her coffee, clear. She said, "How not to appear with a bright morning face, I haven't even washed!"

Fourth Round Wage Boost Already Speculated Upon

Eberstadt, Gotham Banker, May Become Defense Head

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Already there is speculation about the fourth round of postwar wage increases, although many unions still have not completed their 1948 third-round negotiations.

The telephone unions, for example, are just launching an all-out fight for the third-round pattern of about 12½ cents an hour established in other major industries.

However, there is talk of another boost next spring and the unions may demand about the same increase received this year.

Ferdinand Eberstadt

Some statisticians calculate that the cost of living will have gone up a little over nine points in the period from April, 1948, to next Jan. 1.

Using the General Motors formula—a one-cent hourly wage boost for every increase of 1.14 points in the cost of living—that would mean a fourth-round pay boost of about eight cents. Add to this the three cents an hour contained in the GM formula as an "improvement factor," and the total comes to about 11 cents an hour.

Unions may ask double that in fourth round negotiations but settle for half.

● CABINET SPECULATION—Front runner for the choice post of Defense secretary—if Thomas E. Dewey is elected president—currently is Ferdinand Eberstadt, New York banker who has done several important jobs for the government and done them well.

Earlier talk centered around Senator Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, and Harold E. Stassen. It has been established, however, that all would be barred from the post by reason of having participated in the legislation which created the department of defense, or as recent soldiers.

Lodge was a tank officer and Stassen a Navy captain in World War II.

● GERMAN WOMEN—The sudden realization that there are 7,500,000 more women than men in Germany presages new action among United States occupation officials.

A concerted drive will be launched to increase the small numbers of German women already felt to be in sympathy with democracy as Americans know it.

The United States is expected to send among these German women some workers from American organizations who will really get down to cases and show the German women how to win freedom for themselves.

Trips to Europe by presidents of United States women's clubs probably will be eliminated.

Forerunner of the type of woman to be sent to Germany in the future is Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, former congresswoman from Connecticut, who for three months studied the needs and ways of appealing directly to German women. Her conclusion:

A counter-attack against Soviet propaganda in Germany may be effected peacefully by wooing the women of Germany to democracy.

● THE FARM ANGLE—Farmers fear that they are going to be the big target of public wrath in the inflation picture.

Prices Up Despite Harvests

Reason is that with huge harvests in the offing and prices still high the price of farm commodities will be at peak levels thanks to government guarantees.

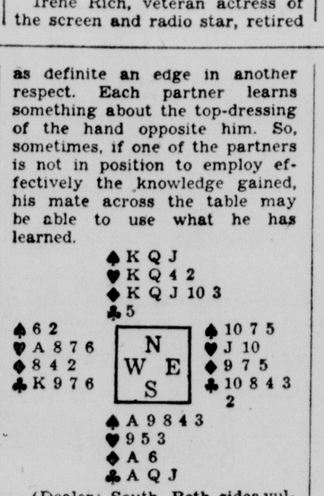

All this is due, of course, to legislation enacted by Congress which continues farm prices at 90 per cent of parity on major items.

This means that farmers will get top prices and the public will foot the bill. The bill adds up to about two billion dollars inasmuch as price supports are guaranteed until 1950.

WHEREAS the Blackwood convention has an advantage, in that one partner gets specific information without the opponents learning too much, the Culbertson 4-5 No Trumps possesses just as definite an edge in another respect. Bidding given in the first sequence was about what developed at most tables of a tournament where the Blackwood convention was used. South learned that North had no aces, but North couldn't tell whether South had two aces or three. It was hence a guess for him. Some Norths took it into 6-Spades, others left it just short of a slam.

In the second sequence you find the bidding of a pair that used the Culbertson 4-5 No Trumps convention. The moment South made the bid, North knew he held either three aces or else two aces and the king of a bid suit. Since North himself held the kings of the only suits that had been bid, he knew positively that South had three aces. No matter what three they might happen to be, small slam figured to be a cinch. So North, in accordance with the convention, just naturally bid the slam himself.

GERMANS LOOK ON

AN AMERICAN teacher, Miss Marion Petraskis of Chicago, who has taught in the American high school in Frankfurt, Germany, for the last two years, claims that students in the German schools would like to see the adoption of American ways by their native institutions.

Teachers, parents and students have cooperated in reproducing American schools as far as possible in this foreign setting. The Germans are amazed at the cheerful informality of the American classrooms, which contrasts strongly with the rigid discipline of the lecture system with which they are familiar. The football games, with their cheering sections, and other forms of intra-mural and interscholastic athletic contests intrigue the German students, for whom life is a grim affair.

A strong characteristic of systems such as that set up by the Nazis in Germany is their narrow insistence on iron-clad discipline. No humor ever creeps into their proceedings, and the lighter side of life is sternly suppressed. It is good for the Germans to come to the realization that serious study can be accomplished side by side with good cheer and informality. Modifications of their regimentation might make the student and citizen alike a less easy prey to dictatorship.

PROTECTING MEDIATORS

RUNNING through official United Nations reaction to the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte is a current of opinion, expressed in a demand by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, that the United Nations should have means to guard the lives of its mediators and other working representatives.

Common sense is on the side of this idea. By the nature of their work, mediators and investigators under the United Nations usually will be called on to go into areas of violence. Where violence has flared to such extent that the international organization must intercede, local protection for United Nations representatives frequently may be lacking, and of dubious value at best.

The strongest guard for mediators would not rule out the possibility of assassination, which may be the act of a fanatic who is completely reckless of his own life. But the dangers of the mediator's work could be reduced to a minimum.

This argument may be added to others in favor of some kind of armed force for the United Nations. Whether it is called police guard or military unit of whatever, such a force should be established.

This is a big country, but the individual's vote may still determine results. In the recent Texas primary for senator 1,000,000 votes were cast, and the victor, Congressman Lyndon Johnson, won by just 87 votes. How many Texans neglected to vote, saying, "My vote won't make any difference?"

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Mr. Truman has missed the tone of the hour. This is not the time to "give them hell." It is a time for a serious and sober discussion of national affairs. It is not a time for a McKinley-Bryan campaign, nor even for a Roosevelt-Willkie campaign. It is a time for Lincoln-Douglas debates.

Let me cite one reason:

At the moment that Mr. Truman is giving them hell—as he put it—American delegates are meeting with delegations of all nations to continue efforts to reach a peace. It is three years since the war ended but there is no peace. In fact, we may be very close to a fighting war. The Russians may decide to push us out of Berlin at any moment and should they do it, we shall either have to fight or suffer defeat and one is as bad as the other. It is a very sobering thought that we are, in this September, 1948, at the climactic moment of World War II.

Under our Constitution, we have to hold a general election this year, to choose a President, the whole body of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate. No election could have been held at a worse time. But there it is and decent men make the most of it without degrading themselves or their country. Unfortunately, year after year, the elections become more vaudevillian. There are many explanations for this trend but the trend itself is too obvious not to cause distress.

Earl Warren, the Republican candidate for vice-president, set the high note for this campaign when he recognized that while the two-party system is essential to the American political structure, it must be recognized that there is good in both parties, that both have served America well. He did not attack President Truman; he did not vituperate. He was calm, dignified and statesmanlike. He followed the course set by Governor Dewey and so ably pursued by Harold Stassen in his Detroit speech. It was an encouraging tone and gave some hope of a campaign on issues not on wisecracks.

It would be to the best interests of the United States if President Truman adopted a similar lofty approach to his campaign. After all, America is, at this moment in human history, the central nation of the world, and Harry Truman is its President. True, he is also a candidate, but as President, he must uphold the dignity of his office and of his nation. This, as Jesse Jones so ably put it, he is incapable of doing. It does not suit his notion. Giving them hell—as he put it—is more to his liking.

Yet, we must consider that should we be faced by a crisis at Berlin, he will have to appeal to the entire American people for unity, for total backing of whatever policy he designs to pursue.

He will have to have Republican and Democratic support as well as the support of those so-called liberals and progressives whom he is trying to wean away from Henry Wallace. He will have to have the support of management and the workingman as well as of the labor leaders and labor union careerists to whom he is so devoted.

Penicillin Used Successfully In Treating Osteomyelitis

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

OSTEOMYELITIS or infection of the bone has always been notoriously stubborn and difficult to treat. Children afflicted in this way were particularly to be pitied. Many a little victim has, in the past, spent as much as a year in the hospital without being completely healed even after numerous, painful operations. All too frequently, the slow fire of the infection destroyed so much bone that the child was condemned to limp through life with one leg shorter than the other.

Today, penicillin and other germ-fighting drugs have revolutionized the treatment of this dread disorder, making healing speedier and much more sure.

Plan of Treatment

In the plan of treatment used at the Mayo Clinic by Dr. Frederick M. Graham and his co-workers, the main attack on the disease is still surgical and involves cutting away of the infected bone, but the use of penicillin and other drugs has made all the difference in the success of the operation and the rate of healing.

Penicillin is given for from three to seven days before the operation. In some cases sulfathiazole is also given and other measures used to build up the patient. These include the injection of whole blood into a vein if the patient is suffering from anemia.

After the infected bone is cut away, the area is washed with a solution of penicillin. In most instances, the wound is closed at the time of operation, though sometimes where infection is severe it may be necessary to provide for the drainage of infected material.

Following Operation

In every case the penicillin is continued following the operation. Streptomycin may also be used in certain cases, depending on the type of germs responsible for the infection, since some kinds of trouble-makers may be eliminated more quickly with this drug than with penicillin.

This type of treatment makes possible a more thorough cutting away of infected bone because danger of spreading the infection is eliminated by the penicillin. Furthermore, the one operative wound may be closed, thus decreasing the number of painful changes of dressings and the length of the patient's stay in the hospital. It would appear, too, that with this method of treatment, the number of cures is greater.

Form of Treatment

The other form of treatment employed in this condition is what is known as the open method. In such cases, the operative wound is drained. Of course, when drainage is necessary, the dressings must be frequently changed and healing may go on at a slower rate.

Osteomyelitis causes fever, pain in the affected area and some swelling of the tissues. The diagnosis can be definitely made by X-ray examination of the bone.

It seems quite certain that in penicillin, streptomycin, and the sulfonamide drugs we have our best weapons against this disabling disease.

A Reader: For what purpose is dexedrine used?

Answer: Dexedrine has been employed recently to aid in reducing weight, since it seems to have some effect in controlling the appetite. However, it should be utilized only under the direction of the physician in the dose which he prescribes.

MARRY for MONEY

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful Gail "Rusty" Rogers, New York model, loves Sam Meredith passionately. She wants him, all the fun and excitement that goes with his career as a newspaper reporter. But, with restless, adventure-loving Sam Gail knows there would be no real home life, no security. She is frightened by the poverty of her childhood and so makes up her mind to "Marry for Money." After a gay two-some dinner in Greenwich Village, Sam and Gail repair to her small apartment, shared with two other girls, and once more argue out their marriage problem. Presently Sam demands to know whether Gail is angling for the wealthy Brad Spencer and she tells him very frankly that she is. Sam leaves in a rage, and Gail cries herself to sleep.

CHAPTER FOUR

GIVE OVER, said Gail's heart urgently, take the gamble, what are promises, made a lifetime ago? No one's happy for long, you're entitled to as much happiness as you can get, aren't you? Sam's your guy, you've known that from the first time you set eyes on him.

She wanted Sam Meredith; the crazy jokes they shared, the warmth and excitement . . . she wanted the mounting challenge of their sudden, stormy quarrels, their reconciliations, as sudden and complete. She wanted the easy response of her senses, young, ardent . . . the illusion that, with him, she need never again be lonely or afraid. But her mind rejected him, when they were not together. She could not think clearly, with Sam, except on the surface.

Her mind did not want Sam at all; his moods and tempers, his unreliability, his willful restlessness.

She had met his divorced wife before Sam returned from Europe . . . at a party one night, twenty people sitting around a crowded living room . . .

Betty was small, fair, childlike, wearing new happiness for anyone to see. Her husband was a pleasant, grave young man. Gail had liked them both.

Someone spoke of Sam, of a dispatch over his by-line, and someone else hunted up the paper. And Betty had touched her husband's hand and smiled; it was as if she had said, Don't mind, it's all over.

"Sorry," said the man who had spoken of Sam, "I forgot," and Betty had said, "It doesn't matter."

She had explained matters a little to Gail, sitting beside her on a big couch with sagging springs.

"I was married to Sam Meredith," she said, "for three years . . . we were divorced just before the war . . . I met Peter shortly after . . . people forget, I suppose, because Sam never seemed married, to anyone."

Betty had stopped working after her marriage to Peter. She had been on a fashion magazine for young women. The second time Gail saw her they met at a cosmetic counter, around two o'clock on a spring day and neither had lunched. So they had gone into Hick's, found a table and sat there talking for some time, over salads and iced tea.

Gail had asked idly, "Do you miss your job?"

"No," Betty told her. "I never wanted to work, really. I'm not the type. I'm that peculiar creature, a domestic woman. I like to cook and run a house and raise a family." She was older than Gail, she have been twenty-eight or so, but she looked very young. She had flushed, a little, and added, smiling, "I've begun . . . that is, in a few months I shall be raising a family . . . I hope it's twins."

Gail remembered laughing, and saying she hoped so, too.

"Sam never wanted children," said Betty. "He never wanted a home; he never wanted a wife."

"He sounds very selfish," said Gail, who didn't much care for the intimate confidence which come so easily to many women.

"You can say that again," Betty had assured her. "I couldn't take it, after a while, never knowing where he was nor what he was doing. I lived in a boarding house in Reno and cried steadily for six weeks. What a dope! But then I didn't know I'd meet Peter . . . not in Reno, but back here, at my aunt's, of all places. He was her insurance broker."

"Didn't your husband mind . . . about the divorce, I mean?"

"He asked for it," said Betty. "He wanted to be free . . . as if he had ever behaved as if he were anything else . . . there was a war coming up, he said . . . such an original reason for asking for a divorce."

Now Gail turned on her pillow, and clenched her sopping handkerchief. She had seen Betty . . . since . . . Betty knew about her and Sam; everyone knew. Betty had warned her.

Funny, the excuses you made, the illusions you fostered . . . all so simple, with such clarity. You said, Betty hadn't been the right woman for him. It was as easy as that. You went on from there, excusing, condoning, embroidering . . . With the right woman, Sam would be satisfied to settle down, it was only because he had been unhappy that he had done the things which Betty had told her . . . if he had done them . . . it was common sense to discount half of what an ex-wife said . . . three-quarterrs . . .

If he drank, if there had been other women, it was because he wasn't happy.

That had been a brief illusion, it hadn't lasted long; just until Sam had begun his arguments against marriage . . . which was, he said, as everyone knew now an entirely artificial institution.

She thought, I'll get up and bathe my eyes and take a bromide or something. But the girls would hear her, Evie was a very light sleeper and would patter in, asking anxiously, Are you ill, Gail, what's the matter?

She forced herself to lie still, but she felt cold, the crazy, chilly sensation starting with her feet, creeping up slowly like a little death, until she was shivering under the blankets.

She closed her hands, taut, tense, experiencing a most bitter loneliness, a forlorn bereavement. And presently slept, without warning, and toward morning, dreamed.

She did not know where she was, the outline was vague, there was only uncertainty. The place could have been anywhere: a dingy hotel bedroom: a room in a boardinghouse; a back bedroom and bath, let to respectful people . . . the smell was there, always the same smell; cooking and dust, face powder, soap . . . it was cold, with a damp, frosty shivering; or perhaps it rained in long gray streaks against unwashed windowpanes, gusty and slashing or in a dispirited, halfhearted way; and now it was hot, with a brassy sun and the feeling that the roof was too close overhead . . . In the dream, discomfort shifted to discomfort, train wheels revolved, and someone said loudly, "It's no use," and someone else said gently, "I am afraid there is very little use," and in a room which she could not see there was the sound of difficult, loud breathing . . .

Then it changed, and she could feel the hairbrush, brushing ceaselessly through the tangles, brushing the pain out and the shine in, she could hear the voice saying, "You're all I have, honey, you were worth it all." She could hear the voice saying, "Remember, a hundred strokes a day" . . . saying, "Promise me, promise me, promise me" . . . while the hands, strong and inexorable, went on brushing, brushing . . .

She woke, sweating, her heart pounding, and it was morning and she could hear Pat skittering around the kitchen, she smelled coffee, she heard Evie crying wildly, "My last pair of nylons . . . that would happen today!"

Gail sat up and took her head in her hands. Why do you have to dream, asleep and waking? But your waking dreams are of your own volition, and are sometimes as revealing as those which come by night.

She got out of bed with an effort, put her feet in mules, reached for her robe, and then opened her door. "Hi," she said, and Evie came to stand with the snagged stockings in her hand and say, "I thought you were never going to wake."

Gail asked, "What do you mean, your last pair? I don't know what you do with stockings, you'd think you lived in a bramble bush. I can let you have another pair, Evie."

Pat called, "You up, Gail? How about some coffee?"

Evie went into the tiny kitchen and Gail followed. There was a little range, a sink, a table and cupboard, two chairs and a stool. Gail sat on the stool and drank her coffee, clear. She said, "How not to appear with a bright morning face; I haven't even washed!"

Fourth Round Wage Boost Already Speculated Upon

Eberstadt, Gotham Banker, May Become Defense Head

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Already there is speculation about the fourth round of postwar wage increases, although many unions still have not completed their 1948 third-round negotiations.

The telephone unions, for example, are just launching an all-out fight for the third-round pattern of about 12½ cents an hour established in other major industries.

However, there is talk of another boost next spring and the unions may demand about the same increase received this year.

Ferdinand Eberstadt

Some statisticians calculate that the cost of living will have gone up a little over nine points in the period from April, 1948, to next Jan. 1.

Using the General Motors formula—a one-cent hourly wage boost for every increase of 1.14 points in the cost of living—that would mean a fourth-round pay boost of about eight cents. Add to this the three cents an hour contained in the GM formula as an "improvement factor," and the total comes to about 11 cents an hour.

Unions may ask double that in fourth round negotiations but settle for half.

It has been established, however, that all would be barred from the post by reason of having participated in the legislation which created the department of defense, or as recent soldiers.

Lodge was a tank officer and Stassen a Navy captain in World War II.

Household Hints

Whether or not letting down the hem of a dress will be successful depends to a large degree on several considerations, according to the National Institute of Cleaning and Dyeing. For example, if the dress material is cellulose acetate rayon, previous wear and pressings may have softened the fibers of the crease and permanently molded the crease into the cloth. The job will not be satisfactory either in the case of garments which have faded on the outside, nor in those where wear has taken place along the edge of the hem itself.

Condensed milk has a much lower freezing point that evaporated milk due to its high sugar content. Even at zero only a few ice crystals will form and the water in the milk (28 percent) will not freeze except at extreme temperatures.

EUNICE, LOIS AND TIMOTHY

GOOD TRADITIONS MADE BY CHRISTIAN FAMILY

Scripture—Acts 16:1-5; 17:13-15; I Corinthians 4:14-21; 16:10-11; Philippians 2:19; I Thessalonians 3:1-10; II Timothy 1:3-6; 3:14-15.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TWO WOMEN and a child lived in the home described in our lesson today. A grandmother, Lois; a mother, Eunice, and a child, Timothy, who was later to do heroic work for Christ.

Eunice, Timothy's mother, and his grandmother, Lois, were Jewesses, but his father (presumably dead) was a Greek. He was brought up in the Christian faith, and while we are not told who converted grandmother and mother to that faith, it may have been Paul himself who had visited Lystra before.

At any rate, we have the picture of the two women and one man child in a home, the women teaching the Hebrew scriptures to the boy and the boy absorbing the stories of the heroes of old and of Jesus and His works while on earth.

It was this teaching that was to bear fruit in Timothy's after life. He was eventually ordained the first bishop of the church of the Ephesians.

We do not know when Timothy was born, nor when Paul first saw him. He must have been quite a young man when Paul came to Lystra, where it is thought his home was, and the youth must have made a favorable impression on Paul, because he took Timothy with him on his second missionary journey. He had received good reports of him from others.

The two visited a number of cities, delivering decrees to keep "which had been ordained of the apostles and elders that were at Jerusalem." Paul must have found that Timothy was a very good young missionary, for the two strengthened in the faith the churches they visited and increased their number daily.

These were times of great persecution of the Christian church. We read in Acts 17:13 that Paul, preaching at Thessalonica, was in so much danger that the brethren sent Silas and Paul away to Berea, and even there, when the Thessalonians heard that he was preaching at Berea, they "stirred up the people" so that he was forced to leave there also.

Silas and Timothy stayed on at Berea, however, until Paul had been escorted to Athens, when they went to him.

Many people in the world today, reading these stories of Christians living in constant danger of their lives, or at least of imprisonment, can understand only too well their feelings, for they too, have been—and in some cases still are—in danger of their liberties and often of their lives.

There is still much suffering in various countries among those who are homeless wanderers looking for places to live. The Christian churches are doing noble work trying to help with food, medication and shelter for these poor folk.

In a letter to the Corinthians Paul seems to be worried for fear they fail in faith, and tells them that he has sent "my beloved son," Timothy, to help them keep the faith. In the 16th chapter of the same letter he also recommends Timothy, saying if Timothy comes to them, they should see that he "works without fear: for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do."

Again Paul sent Timothy to the Thessalonians, who were evidently afraid of persecution, to comfort them, and wrote that he was pleased that when Timothy came back to Paul, he brought such a good report of the church.

Paul's letters to Timothy himself are filled with affectionate greetings. The last one, written shortly before Paul's martyrdom, says, "I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day; greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy; when I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother, Lois, and thy mother, Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also."

Timothy is an example of a man who, in his boyhood, had a good home, love, understanding and piety.

Jeep Workers Back On Line

TOLEDO, Sept. 24—Settlement of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., strike in Detroit brought about immediate resumption of work today at the Willys-Overland Motors Co., in Toledo.

Some 2,400 workers at the plant were laid off late Wednesday because of a shortage of Briggs made parts.

If you are the hippy type, a large print bolero, over a solid-color simply cut dress does things for the figure. Horizontal stripes in the bodice, vertical ones in the skirt, or a gay yoke or collar on a slender dark dress are also flattering.

EUNICE, LOIS AND TIMOTHY

GOOD TRADITIONS MADE BY CHRISTIAN FAMILY

Scripture—Acts 16:1-5; 17:13-15; I Corinthians 4:14-21; 16:10-11; Philippians 2:19; I Thessalonians 3:1-10; II Timothy 1:3-6; 3:14-15.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TWO WOMEN and a child lived in the home described in our lesson today. A grandmother, Lois; a mother, Eunice, and a child, Timothy, who was later to do heroic work for Christ.

Eunice, Timothy's mother, and his grandmother, Lois, were Jewesses, but his father (presumably dead) was a Greek. He was brought up in the Christian faith, and while we are not told who converted grandmother and mother to that faith, it may have been Paul himself who had visited Lystra before.

At any rate, we have the picture of the two women and one man child in a home, the women teaching the Hebrew scriptures to the boy and the boy absorbing the stories of the heroes of old and of Jesus and His works while on earth.

It was this teaching that was to bear fruit in Timothy's after life. He was eventually ordained the first bishop of the church of the Ephesians.

We do not know when Timothy was born, nor when Paul first saw him. He must have been quite a young man when Paul came to Lystra, where it is thought his home was, and the youth must have made a favorable impression on Paul, because he took Timothy with him on his second missionary journey. He had received good reports of him from others.

The two visited a number of cities, delivering decrees to keep "which had been ordained of the apostles and elders that were at Jerusalem." Paul must have found that Timothy was a very good young missionary, for the two strengthened in the faith the churches they visited and increased their number daily.

These were times of great persecution of the Christian church. We read in Acts 17:13 that Paul, preaching at Thessalonica, was in so much danger that the brethren sent Silas and Paul away to Berea, and even there, when the Thessalonians heard that he was preaching at Berea, they "stirred up the people" so that he was forced to leave there also.

Silas and Timothy stayed on at Berea, however, until Paul had been escorted to Athens, when they went to him.

Many people in the world today, reading these stories of Christians living in constant danger of their lives, or at least of imprisonment, can understand only too well their feelings, for they too, have been—and in some cases still are—in danger of their liberties and often of their lives.

There is still much suffering in various countries among those who are homeless wanderers looking for places to live. The Christian churches are doing noble work trying to help with food, medication and shelter for these poor folk.

In a letter to the Corinthians Paul seems to be worried for fear they fail in faith, and tells them that he has sent "my beloved son," Timothy, to help them keep the faith. In the 16th chapter of the same letter he also recommends Timothy, saying if Timothy comes to them, they should see that he "works without fear: for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do."

Again Paul sent Timothy to the Thessalonians, who were evidently afraid of persecution, to comfort them, and wrote that he was pleased that when Timothy came back to Paul, he brought such a good report of the church.

Paul's letters to Timothy himself are filled with affectionate greetings. The last one, written shortly before Paul's martyrdom, says, "I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day; greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy; when I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother, Lois, and thy mother, Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also."

Timothy is an example of a man who, in his boyhood, had a good home, love, understanding and piety.

200,000 MAY ATTEND

Pumpkin Show Machinery Starting Out Its Grind

With Pumpkin Show time only one month off, the program for this year is beginning to take form in the numerous committee meetings and across the desks of show officials.

The Pumpkin Show, which engulfs most all of downtown Circleville every year, will be held Oct. 20 to 23.

Officials believe this year's street extravaganza will exceed an attendance mark of 200,000.

The Pumpkin Show long has been tagged the state's second largest crowd-drawer, only the annual state fair bringing in a larger attendance.

Lodge night and parade scheduled for Friday, Oct. 23, hitherto a weak spot on the program, is being filled out to match the other entertainment - jammed evenings.

• • •

ADDED TO the parade of lodges, bands and novelties will be a merchants and industrial section, amateur floats and a comic parade to be sponsored by a school.

Businessmen and representatives of local industries are urged to file their entries with George Fishpaw, assistant parade chairman.

For the amateur float contest, prizes of $35, $25 and $10 will be awarded to the three best entries picked by the judges. Show officials also will donate $35 to the school which will sponsor a comic parade.

Parade Chairman Dan McClain said prizes will be given to winners in the mummer contest to be backed by one of the schools.

Ned Dresbach, secretary of Pumpkin Show, Inc., said other highlights of the show will be the pumpkin pie bake contest and the nationally famed nickel pumpkin pie.

The show secretary said contest premium books are nearing completion and that concessionaires are calling him by long distance phone from all over the East.

• • •

"SEEMS LIKE everybody wants in the Pumpkin Show," Dresbach declared. "Last week, calls were received from New York and Pittsburgh."

With plans nearing the drafting stage, Dresbach now is working on the street layout plan for stands, rides and side shows. He said:

"I have stacks of letters from all over the country asking for a spot in our show. Too bad, but there just isn't room for all of them," Dresbach stated.

Lancaster A-Buzz After Jury Cites 27 Persons

LANCASTER, Sept. 24—The city of Lancaster was a-buzz with rumors today as to the names of 27 persons to be served with warrants—perhaps by nightfall—in the "hot meat" and gambling probe.

The Fairfield County grand jury indicted the group yesterday and recommended that Police Chief Samuel Hutsler and Mayor Fred Von Stein should be cited for "gross neglect of duty in condoning gambling in Lancaster."

The long investigation in which 53 witnesses were called grew out of the theft of meat from the Swift and Co. plant in Columbus.

County Clerk of Courts Isaac Rowles closed his office yesterday afternoon, saying he intended to issue no warrants until all were prepared. Names of those indicted were kept secret pending arrest.

The mayor and police chief refused all comment and Sheriff Harley Higley was reported out of the city.

Jury Foreman T. L. Hewetson said several of those indicted were involved in the "hot meat" case, but he refused to specify an exact number.

The jury requested the state legislature to outlaw "the manufacture and sale of gambling devices in Ohio."

It said Chief Hutsler should be brought before the city civil service commission and Mayor Von Stein before Governor Herbert.

Two Swift Co. employes pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges in Columbus in connection with meat thefts early this month and the Franklin County grand jury indicted six men—two from Lancaster—Aug. 24.

Increased Taxes Seen For 1949

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 24—Youngstown property owners will pay more taxes in 1949 than they did this year.

That was the prediction made yesterday by the Mahoning County budget commissioners following a series of meetings with county subdivisions.

County Auditor Charles B. Rayburn, Treasurer Frank E. Cailor and Prosecutor William A. Ambrose agreed that the city's rate probably would jump 40 cents per $1,000 of property valuation from $20.60 to $21.

This rate, however, is still tentative and must be approved by the state tax commission.

Smith Is Back In Capital For Special Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Walter Bedell Smith, ambassador to Moscow, arrived in Washington early today for consultation on the grave East-West situation.

Smith went immediately from Washington National Airport to the State Department where he conferred with Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett and other officials.

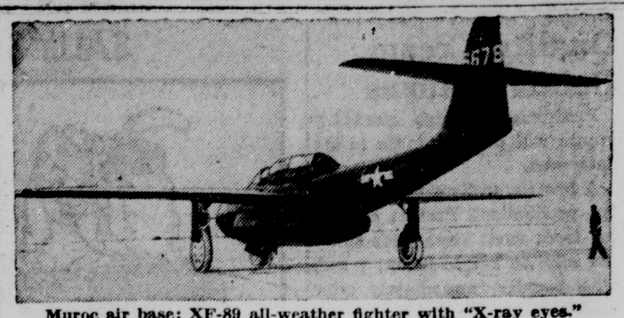

The envoy flew overnight from Paris where he sat in on conferences of the Western Power foreign ministers before they sent their last note to Russia seeking a showdown on the Berlin blockade.

Smith, returning to the capital for the first time in a year is expected to remain about a week.

This development gave the impression that there would be no precipitate move on the part of the Western Powers to force the issue.

Smith's report to Lovett included the views of the British and French foreign ministers who were believed to have urged caution in pressing the present situation.

Washington diplomatic quarters are convinced that the Western Powers will move cautiously for the next several weeks in the conflict with the USSR.

Rotarians Hear District Chief At Dinner-Meet

"What Rotary Club does in community service is directly your responsibility, individually," Louis S. Jacobson of Dayton, governor of the 159th district of Rotary International, told Circleville members Thursday night in the Pickaway Arms.

Jacobson was on his annual tour of Rotary Clubs in this district when he appeared here at the club dinner meeting. Topic of the speech was "Aiming at the Objectives."

The district governor likened the four objects of Rotary to a fourlane highway leading toward Utopia. He declared:

"Any Rotarian who is living by the Golden Rule is living by the objects of Rotary."

• • •

ON THE POINT of objectives, Jacobson said "the most important single function of a Rotary Club is club service and you can't be a good Rotarian with a 60 percent attendance record."

Speaking on international problems, the Rotary governor outlined projects being carried on by some clubs in aiding persons in foreign lands and of Rotary International providing exchange fellowships to promote goodwill and understanding.

Probe Underway At Lorain Plant

LORAIN, Sept. 24—The Federal Bureau of Investigation continued a probe today into the $350,000 fire at the Lorain Brush Beryllium plant in an effort to seek any possible evidence of sabotage or arson.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the state fire marshall also joined in the investigation.

H. W. Schaffner, vice president and plant manager, said, however, that the investigations were only routine because a large part of the loss was to a building owned by the War Assets Administration and leased by the company.

NO PROPS UNDER BEEF

Farm Price Supports Not Held By 'Sky Hooks'

Farmers Friday were warned by Larry A. Best, Pickaway County Agricultural agent, that government supports for farm prices are not hung on sky hooks to keep prices up but those support prices are short props to keep farm income from falling into the cellar. And he points out there is no prop at all under the price of beef cattle.

No present price support program on any Ohio farm product would make a producer happy.

The supports go into effect only after market prices have dropped far enough to cut farmers' buying power about 10 percent below the 1910-14 level.

Parity prices are 1910-14 prices with adjustments made to allow for increases in prices of things farmers have to buy.

Best quoted Dale C. Williams, chairman of the Ohio Production and Marketing Administration who says that the average market price for hogs the week of Sept. 15 was 27 cents a pound. The government support price farmers would have been paid that week was 17 cents a pound, a difference of $20 to $25 a head on each market hog.

• • •

WILLIAMS says producers blame price support programs for keeping food prices high but it was the consumers' market that paid farmers 10 cents a pound more for hogs liveweight than the government would have paid them this month.

Farmers were requested to produce foods at rates geared to wartime needs and the price supports were provided to protect farmers from quick disaster not to make them rich.

Prices for corn and wheat now are near price support levels, so the nation's growers of those two most important cereals will be selling their product on cash markets at 1910-14 buying power levels. Government loans which are available on corn and wheat will be made only to farmers who can provide approved farm storage for the grain under loan.

Alcoa Is Hit By New Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—The Justice Department filed court action today against the Aluminum Company of America to compel the company to "carry out a judgement of illegal monopoly' entered against Alcoa in 1945.

The action, filed in district court in New York, would require the aluminum company to dispose of some plants and properties. A Justice Department spokesman said, however, that Alcoa would be permitted to submit its own plan for reduction of its holdings.

He said that the action "is designed to reduce Alcoa's power and size."

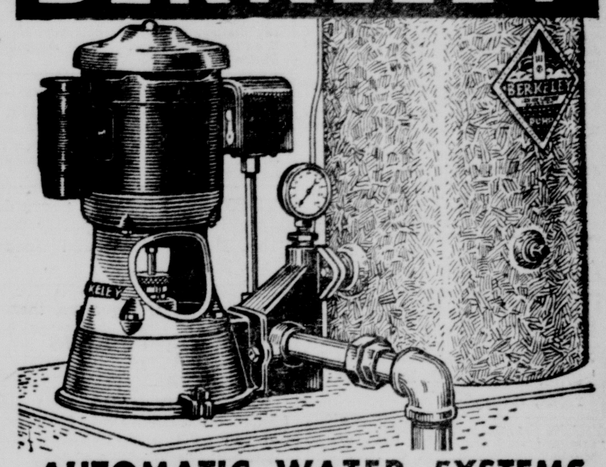

2 Youths Killed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—A Columbus and a Portsmouth youth were killed about midnight in a high speed auto crash on Columbus' west side.

Police said Roy Stewart, 21, of Columbus and Jack H. Clifford of Portsmouth were killed when the sedan Stewart was driving wrapped itself around a utility pole.

200,000 MAY ATTEND

Pumpkin Show Machinery Starting Out Its Grind

With Pumpkin Show time only one month off, the program for this year is beginning to take form in the numerous committee meetings and across the desks of show officials.

The Pumpkin Show, which engulfs most all of downtown Circleville every year, will be held Oct. 20 to 23.

Officials believe this year's street extravaganza will exceed an attendance mark of 200,000.

The Pumpkin Show long has been tagged the state's second largest crowd-drawer, only the annual state fair bringing in a larger attendance.

Lodge night and parade scheduled for Friday, Oct. 23, hitherto a weak spot on the program, is being filled out to match the other entertainment - jammed evenings.

* * *

ADDED TO the parade of lodges, bands and novelties will be a merchants and industrial section, amateur floats and a comic parade to be sponsored by a school.

Businessmen and representatives of local industries are urged to file their entries with George Fishpaw, assistant parade chairman.

For the amateur float contest, prizes of $35, $25 and $10 will be awarded to the three best entries picked by the judges. Show officials also will donate $35 to the school which will sponsor a comic parade.

Parade Chairman Dan McClain said prizes will be given to winners in the mummer contest to be backed by one of the schools.

Ned Dresbach, secretary of Pumpkin Show, Inc., said other highlights of the show will be the pumpkin pie bake contest and the nationally famed nickel pumpkin pie.

The show secretary said contest premium books are nearing completion and that concessionaires are calling him by long distance phone from all over the East.

* * *

"SEEMS LIKE everybody wants in the Pumpkin Show," Dresbach declared. "Last week, calls were received from New York and Pittsburgh."

With plans nearing the drafting stage, Dresbach now is working on the street layout plan for stands, rides and side shows. He said:

"I have stacks of letters from all over the country asking for a spot in our show. Too bad, but there just isn't room for all of them," Dresbach stated.

Lancaster A-Buzz After Jury Cites 27 Persons

LANCASTER, Sept. 24—The city of Lancaster was a-buzz with rumors today as to the names of 27 persons to be served with warrants—perhaps by nightfall—in the "hot meat" and gambling probe.

The Fairfield County grand jury indicted the group yesterday and recommended that Police Chief Samuel Hutsler and Mayor Fred Von Stein should be cited for "gross neglect of duty in condoning gambling in Lancaster."

The long investigation in which 53 witnesses were called grew out of the theft of meat from the Swift and Co. plant in Columbus.

County Clerk of Courts Isaac Rowles closed his office yesterday afternoon, saying he intended to issue no warrants until all were prepared. Names of those indicted were kept secret pending arrest.

The mayor and police chief refused all comment and Sheriff Harley Higley was reported out of the city.

Jury Foreman T. L. Hewetson said several of those indicted were involved in the "hot meat' case, but he refused to specify an exact number.

The jury requested the state legislature to outlaw "the manufacture and sale of gambling devices in Ohio."

It said Chief Hutsler should be brought before the city civil service commission and Mayor Von Stein before Governor Herbert.

Two Swift Co. employes pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges in Columbus in connection with meat thefts early this month and the Franklin County grand jury indicted six men—two from Lancaster—Aug. 24.

Increased Taxes Seen For 1949

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 24—Youngstown property owners will pay more taxes in 1949 than they did this year.

That was the prediction made yesterday by the Mahoning County budget commissioners following a series of meetings with county subdivisions.

County Auditor Charles B. Rayburn, Treasurer Frank E. Cailor and Prosecutor William A. Ambrose agreed that the city's rate probably would jump 40 cents per $1,000 of property valuation from $20.60 to $21.

This rate, however, is still tentative and must be approved by the state tax commission.

Smith Is Back In Capital For Special Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Walter Bedell Smith, ambassador to Moscow, arrived in Washington early today for consultation on the grave East-West situation.

Smith went immediately from Washington National Airport to the State Department where he conferred with Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett and other officials.

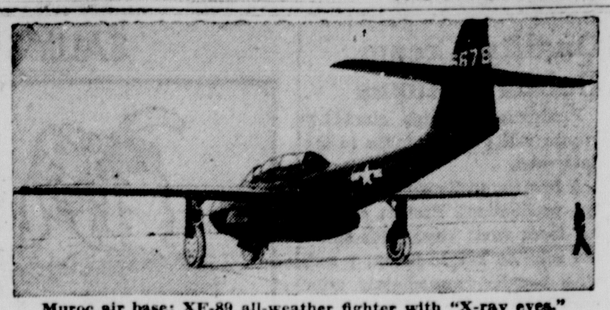

The envoy flew overnight from Paris where he sat in on conferences of the Western Power foreign ministers before they sent their last note to Russia seeking a showdown on the Berlin blockade.

Smith, returning to the capital for the first time in a year is expected to remain about a week.

This development gave the impression that there would be no precipitate move on the part of the Western Powers to force the issue.

Smith's report to Lovett included the views of the British and French foreign ministers who were believed to have urged caution in pressing the present situation.

Washington diplomatic quarters are convinced that the Western Powers will move cautiously for the next several weeks in the conflict with the USSR.

Muroc air base: XF-89 all-weather fighter with "X-ray eyes."

Detroit tank arsenal: touch of finger moves this 70-ton monster. FIRST PHOTO of Air Force's new experimental all-weather fighter with its swept-up, built-up tail assembly is remindful of a scorpion. It is equipped with "X-ray eyes" enabling pilot to seek out other craft or ground installations by day or night in any weather. The glossy black Northrop-made craft is tested daily at Muroc Air Base, Cal. Army's newest tank, believed to be the world's best, is undergoing tests at Detroit, Mich. Aside from fact it weighs 70 tons, operates by fingertip control, Army won't say a word. (International)

Rotarians Hear District Chief At Dinner-Meet

"What Rotary Club does in community service is directly your responsibility, individually," Louis S. Jacobson of Dayton, governor of the 159th district of Rotary International, told Circleville members Thursday night in the Pickaway Arms.

Jacobson was on his annual tour of Rotary Clubs in this district when he appeared here at the club dinner meeting. Topic of the speech was "Aiming at the Objectives."

The district governor likened the four objects of Rotary to a fourlane highway leading toward Utopia. He declared:

"Any Rotarian who is living by the Golden Rule is living by the objects of Rotary."

* * *

ON THE POINT of objectives, Jacobson said "the most important single function of a Rotary Club is club service and you can't be a good Rotarian with a 60 percent attendance record."

Speaking on international problems, the Rotary governor outlined projects being carried on by some clubs in aiding persons in foreign lands and of Rotary International providing exchange fellowships to promote goodwill and understanding.

Probe Underway At Lorain Plant

LORAIN, Sept. 24—The Federal Bureau of Investigation continued a probe today into the $350,000 fire at the Lorain Brush Beryllium plant in an effort to seek any possible evidence of sabotage or arson.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the state fire marshall also joined in the investigation.

H. W. Schaffner, vice president and plant manager, said, however, that the investigations were only routine because a large part of the loss was to a building owned by the War Assets Administration and leased by the company.

NO PROPS UNDER BEEF

Farm Price Supports Not Held By 'Sky Hooks'

Farmers Friday were warned by Larry A. Best, Pickaway County Agricultural agent, that government supports for farm prices are not hung on sky hooks to keep prices up but those support prices are short props to keep farm income from falling into the cellar. And he points out there is no prop at all under the price of beef cattle.

No present price support program on any Ohio farm product would make a producer happy.

The supports go into effect only after market prices have dropped far enough to cut farmers' buying power about 10 percent below the 1910-14 level. Parity prices are 1910-14 prices with adjustments made to allow for increases in prices of things farmers have to buy.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY

There's an empty place in our lives these days,
Since God took our baby away;
And though the sharp pain of our loss is gone,
We think of him every day.
Our love hasn't lessened, but time does heal wounds.
We're glad for the time he was here.
We know that our Saviour in Heaven above,
Will comfort us year after year.
Just two years ago he was called away
He'd served his purpose here,
It's a special day in Heaven, I know,
It's Ronnies birthday up there.

Quality Cream Boosts Returns

Production of high quality cream will pay dividends to the dairymen.

A few suggestions for assuring top production: Protect separator from rust; rinse with chlorine solution before using; wash with powder immediately after each separation; cool cream immediately; separate mills immediately after straining; cool cream rapidly and thoroughly before mixing with older cream; keep containers covered from the time the milk is strained into cans until it reaches the receiving vat; strain milk in milk room or milk house, not in the barn; cover cans tightly and place in cooler with cold circulating water.

He will need the support of white American citizens as well as of Negro American citizens whom he suddenly has discovered as his friends although he discriminated against them most of his life. He will need the support of Mayflower descendants as well as the newer immigrants in the Northern cities.

Truman's divisive tactics are bad for America. I believe that they are also bad for Truman, as they will disgust many sober, thoughtful Americans, as they already have such men as Jesse Jones, Dean Alfange and others who are announcing against him.

But that is his business. Mine and yours is the broader issue that his vituperation, his "give them hell" attitude, hurts America because it degenerates America.

Fistfight Marks Columbus' Win In AA Playoffs

By International News Service

Columbus and St. Paul took a few deep breaths today, preparatory to opening the final American Association playoffs in St. Paul tomorrow.

The Red Birds won their berth yesterday with a 4-2 win that featured brilliant pitching by Charlie Stanceu and an old-fashioned fist-fight between Brewer Pitcher Jim Prendergast and Catcher Joe Garagiola of the Birds.

Stanceu allowed the Brewers only three hits. He fanned nine, walked four and retired the last 17 batters in order.

Prendergast, who was charged with the loss, took on Garagiola when he came to the plate in the Brewers' half of the seventh. The pair stood toe-to-toe and whaled away at each other for a goodly spell before they both took that walk to the showers.

Bill Howerton's two homeruns led the Columbus attack and Tommy Gleviano hit three for four. Al Epperly was taken for two runs and the Flock went on to take one each from Prendergast and Ray Martin.

Gene Markland got a homer for the Brewers on the game's first pitch and another run came in later in the inning, but the Birds took one in the third, tied the score in the fourth and took the lead in the sixth.

Brownies Prep For Rockets

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — The Cleveland Browns went through final workouts today in preparation for their tilt with the Chicago Rockets in Municipal Stadium Sunday.

The contest will be the second meeting this season of the two clubs. The Brownies emerged victors, 28-7, in last Friday's contest.

The Rockets, who won only one game in 1947, already have a victory over the improved Baltimore Colts to their credit. The Colts previously downed the New York Yankees, last season's eastern division champs.

Race Winner Baffles Fans

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—Chicago horse race fans were blinking their eyes and shaking their heads today.

A 4-year-old gelding, which opened at 20-to-1 in the betting and was the 2-to-1 favorite at posttime, won the 6½-furlong claiming race yesterday at Hawthorne Park. The winner's name? Dobbin.

Plastering Job Is Postponed

HERMOSA BEACH, —Adolf Staacke decided to do some long delayed plastering work on his garage.

The job was postponed once again when Staacke discovered a hummingbird nest containing two eggs. Staacke waited until the eggs hatched and the birds were able to fly before beginning to plaster.

Bizarre Mishap Kills Lad, 9

LONG BEACH—In one of the year's strangest accidents, Gary Lowell Worrell, nine, was killed while riding on top of his father's automobile.

When the elder Worrell stopped the car, Gary slid forward. His head struck the vehicle's radio aerial and the point of the metal rod pierced an eye, penetrating the boy's brain.

Parents To Be Feted At Game

Local '11' Set For Hillsboro Tilt

A last minute shuffle by school athletic heads has added another attraction to Circleville's South Central Ohio League opener against Hillsboro on the local gridiron Friday night.

Halftime of the game will be devoted to parents of players who are to be introduced to the fans.

The new deal came after school heads found that three of the four regularly scheduled home games were slated for the first three weeks, while the fourth was scheduled during Pumpkin Show week. Tentative plans call for next week's game to be heralded as "Homecoming."

The Tiger team apparently is ready for the Friday night SCOL inaugural, having prepped under the lights Thursday night in pass defenses and last-minute conditioners.

A new defensive shift is expected to be used by the Tigers against the Indians, resembling in football the "Ted Williams Shift" used by baseball clubs.

* * *

THE SHIFT will be employed to cover big Bill Jenike, sticky-fingered Hillsboro left end, who poses a threat as pass receiver. The end spearheads an aerial offensive touted to be the best ground gainer employed by the Indian aggregation.

Gametime is set at 8 p. m.

Following are the probable starting lineups for the Friday night encounter:

Circleville	Pos.	Hillsboro
Mancini	LE	Jenike
Sabine	LT	Zink
Cupp	LG	Miller
Rihl	C	Roush
Mayberry	RG	Smith
R. Starkey	RT	Kain
Smallwood	RE	Osman
McAlister	QB	Davis
Hill	LH	Hudson
Francis	RH	Barris
Valentine	FB	Stout

Coaches Plan Details For Cage Carnival

Pickaway County basketball officials and coaches met Thursday night to complete plans for the basketball carnival, scheduled in Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum Nov. 1.

The carnival is to give county fans a look-see at their favorites before regular season target practice begins.

Each county team will play a 10-minute quarter against county league competition, while coaches and officials explain new rules and penalties.

A running account of each quarter and explanation of each penalty is to be conducted by one of the officials over a public address system.

Praiseworthy Grabs Feature

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 24—Praiseworthy captured the featured 9-16 mile 21 Class Pace last night at Aurora Downs by defeating Lee Dewey and Major Crusader.

Harry Livingston drove the Fred Streich pacer to victory in 1:44. Praiseworthy was one of six other outsiders to win on the nine-race card.

Lusty Louis won the 27 Class Pace and Billy J. Castle took the 29-30 Class Trot.

Happy Siskiyou won the third race on the program, the mile pace for 2-year-olds and maidends.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY

There's an empty place in our lives these days,
Since God took our baby away;
And though the sharp pain of our loss is gone,
We think of him every day.
Our love hasn't lessened, but time does heal wounds,
We're glad for the time he was here.
We know that our Saviour in Heaven above,
Will comfort us year after year.
Just two years ago he was called away
He'd served his purpose here.
It's a special day in Heaven, I know,
It's Ronnies birthday up there.

Quality Cream Boosts Returns

Production of high quality cream will pay dividends to the dairymen.

A few suggestions for assuring top production: Protect separator from rust; rinse with chlorine solution before using; wash with powder immediately after each separation; cool cream immediately; separate mills immediately after straining; cool cream rapidly and thoroughly before mixing with older cream; keep containers covered from the time the milk is strained into cans until it reaches the receiving vat; strain milk in milk room or milk house, not in the barn; cover cans tightly and place in cooler with cold circulating water.

These Days

He will need the support of white American citizens as well as of Negro American citizens whom he suddenly has discovered as his friends although he discriminated against them most of his life. He will need the support of Mayflower descendants as well as the newer immigrants in the Northern cities.

Truman's divisive tactics are bad for America. I believe that they are also bad for Truman, as they will disgust many sober, thoughtful Americans, as they already have such men as Jesse Jones, Dean Alfange and others who are announcing against him.

But that is his business. Mine and yours is the broader issue that his vituperation, his "give them hell" attitude, hurts America because it degenerates America.

Fistfight Marks Columbus' Win In AA Playoffs

By International News Service

Columbus and St. Paul took a few deep breaths today, preparatory to opening the final American Association playoffs in St. Paul tomorrow.

The Red Birds won their berth yesterday with a 4-2 win that featured brilliant pitching by Charlie Stanceu and an old-fashioned fist-fight between Brewer Pitcher Jim Prendergast and Catcher Joe Garagiola of the Birds.

Stanceu allowed the Brewers only three hits. He fanned nine, walked four and retired the last 17 batters in order.

Prendergast, who was charged with the loss, took on Garagiola when he came to the plate in the Brewers' half of the seventh. The pair stood toe-to-toe and whaled away at each other for a goodly spell before they both took that walk to the showers.

Bill Howerton's two homeruns led the Columbus attack and Tommy Glaviano hit three for four. Al Epperly was taken for two runs and the Flock went on to take one each from Prendergast and Ray Martin.

Gene Markland got a homer for the Brewers on the game's first pitch and another run came in later in the inning, but the Birds took one in the third, tied the score in the fourth and took the lead in the sixth.

Brownies Prep For Rockets

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — The Cleveland Browns went through final workouts today in preparation for their tilt with the Chicago Rockets in Municipal Stadium Sunday.

The contest will be the second meeting this season of the two clubs. The Brownies emerged victors, 28-7, in last Friday's contest.

The Rockets, who won only one game in 1947, already have a victory over the improved Baltimore Colts to their credit. The Colts previously downed the New York Yankees, last season's eastern division champs.

Race Winner Baffles Fans

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—Chicago horse race fans were blinking their eyes and shaking their heads today.

A 4-year-old gelding, which opened at 20-to-1 in the betting and was the 2-to-1 favorite at posttime, won the 6 ½-furlong claiming race yesterday at Hawthorne Park. The winner's name? Dobbin.

Plastering Job Is Postponed

The job was postponed once again when Staacke discovered a hummingbird nest containing two eggs. Staacke waited until the eggs hatched and the birds were able to fly before beginning to plaster.

Bizarre Mishap Kills Lad, 9

LONG BEACH—In one of the year's strangest accidents, Gary Lowell Worrell, nine, was killed while riding on top of his father's automobile.

When the elder Worrell stopped the car, Gary slid forward. His head struck the vehicle's radio aerial and the point of the metal rod pierced an eye, penetrating the boy's brain.

Parents To Be Feted At Game

Local '11' Set For Hillsboro Tilt

A last minute shuffle by school athletic heads has added another attraction to Circleville's South Central Ohio League opener against Hillsboro on the locals gridiron Friday night.

Halftime of the game will be devoted to parents of players who are to be introduced to the fans.

The new deal came after school heads found that three of the four regularly scheduled home games were slated for the first three weeks, while the fourth was scheduled during Pumpkin Show week. Tentative plans call for next week's game to be heralded as "Homecoming."

The Tiger team apparently is ready for the Friday night SCOL inaugural, having prepped under the lights Thursday night in pass defenses and last-minute conditioners.

A new defensive shift is expected to be used by the Tigers against the Indians, resembling in football the "Ted Williams Shift" used by baseball clubs.

* * *

THE SHIFT will be employed to cover big Bill Jenike, sticky-fingered Hillsboro left end, who poses a threat as pass receiver. The end spearheads an aerial offensive touted to be the best ground gainer employed by the Indian aggregation.

Gametime is set at 8 p. m.

Following are the probable starting lineups for the Friday night encounter:

Circleville	Pos.	Hillsboro
Mancini	LE	Jenike
Sabine	LT	Zink
Cupp	LG	Miller
Rihl	C	Rousn
Mayberry	RG	Smith
R. Starkey	RT	Kain
Smallwood	RE	Osman
McAlister	QB	Davis
Hill	LH	Hudson
Francis	RH	Barris

Coaches Plan Details For Cage Carnival

Pickaway County basketball officials and coaches met Thursday night to complete plans for the basketball carnival, scheduled in Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum Nov. 1.

The carnival is to give county fans a look-see at their favorites before regular season target practice begins.

Each county team will play a 10-minute quarter against county league competition, while coaches and officials explain new rules and penalties.

A running account of each quarter and explanation of each penalty is to be conducted by one of the officials over a public address system.

Praiseworthy Grabs Feature

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 24—Praiseworthy captured the featured 9-16 mile 21 Class Pace last night at Aurora Downs by defeating Lee Dewey and Major Crusader.

Harry Livingston drove the Fred Streich pacer to victory in 1:44. Praiseworthy was one of six other outsiders to win on the nine-race card.

Lusty Louis won the 27 Class Pace and Billy J. Castle took the 29-30 Class Trot.

Happy Siskiyou won the third race on the program, the mile pace for 2-year-olds and maidends.

MISSOURI TO TAKE BUCKS?

Irish-Purdue Tilt Tops Football Opening Cards

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—Ohio State's Bucks faced the usual signal drill and other non-fatiguing tactics today with their season's opener against Missouri only 24 hours away.

Coach Wes Fesler tapered off a bit yesterday with a last minute review of everything the Bucks forlornly hope will slow down the raging Tigers.

With only three non-lettermen on his first and second teams, Don Faurot will find his Tigers heavily favored for the first time since the Buck-Missouri series began in 1939.

Missouri never has beaten the Bucks. The 1946 game was a 13-all tie, and last year the Bucks barely squeezed through with a 13-7 decision.

This looks like Missouri's year. The Bucks, underdogs to begin with, have taken a beating from early season injuries. Ohio is very vulnerable at the ends, and that is where Faurot's offensive style causes a majority of plays to be directed.

• • •

SO BAD is the situation, in fact, that Chuck Gilbert, a junior varsity guard as late as last Spring, will start at right end. Fesler hopes Tom Watson, his intended No. 1 man at the position, will see some action, but Letterman Jimmy Haague is definitely lost with a broken hand.

All Western Conference football teams hit the 1948 touchdown trail tomorrow, with Indiana at Wisconsin in the official conference opener and Purdue at Notre Dame in the game of the day.

Two rugged juggernauts, veteran-heavy and spoiling for glory, hie westward, Northwestern for a crack at rugged UCLA in Los Angeles and Minnesota for its game with Washington at Seattle.

On the road, too, will be Michigan, fabulous conference, Rose Bowl and co-national champion of 1947, opening against Michigan State at East Lansing, in a game that may be tighter than a phone booth.

At home are Illinois, hosting Kansas State at Champaign, Iowa, greeting Marquette at Iowa City and Ohio State's completely question-mark brigade taking on Missouri.

Not even so provocative a card as that, however, can draw attention completely away from South Bend where the early-season spotlight holds a Notre Dame team that hasn't lost in 18 straight games and a Purdue club that outgained the great Irish team of a year ago and is back again—stronger.

The odds, officially, make Notre Dame the favorite at more than a touchdown.

Stu Holcomb, the Purdue coach, thinks if he can get by his lack of reserve strength and an admittedly tough schedule, the Boilermakers can really go. Tomorrow may do the talking for him.

Tribe Eyes Tiger Series In Flag Hope

Bosox, Yankees Plan 3 Games

DETROIT, Sept. 24—The Cleveland Indians were running neck-and-neck with the Boston Red Sox today as they made the final turn and started down the home stretch with a three-game series with the pesky Detroit Tigers.

For the three-game set with the Bengals, Manager Lou Boudreau is depending on his three mound aces—Bob Lemon, Gene Bearden and Bob Feller—to bring the Tribe out on top of the American League flag chase.

Meanwhile, the New Yorkers, who are but one game behind the Indians and Bosox, battle the Beantowners in a three-game series beginning today.

Although the Tigers are out of the race, Manager Steve O'Neill said that his boys "can still have a lot to say about who wins. We don't have our top batting strenth with our two best hitters out, but we're going good now and we have our best pitchers ready."

• • •

THE FOURTH place Pittsburgh Pirates were in immediate danger today of dropping out of the National League flag race.

The Bucs, eight games behind the idle Boston Braves are scheduled to go against the Cincinnati Reds in a night game tonight.

Pittsburgh has nine games left to play. If it loses to Cincinnati, the team will be mathematically eliminated from pennant competition.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals, seven games out of first with nine games remaining on their agenda, play the Cubs at Chicago.

The Braves, who are enjoying another day of rest, will send their ace hurlers—Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn—into a two-game series with New York opening Saturday.

The Giants didn't have much success against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. The Brooks kept their flickering pennant hopes alive—one Brooklyn loss and they're ex-champions—by whacking the Giants, 7 to 1.

Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella slammed homeruns in the eighth to break the game open and give Lefty Joe Hatten his 13th win. Young Monte Kennedy took the loss.

Big John Mize tied Ralph Kiner for the National League homerun leadership by smacking his 39th circuit clout in the seventh inning.

In the only other game played in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds made their hits count and trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 2.

Ashville Reds Out After 2nd Half Of Flag

Ashville Reds will try for the second half of the South Central Ohio Baseball League pennant Sunday afternoon at the home of the Chillicothe Meads.

The Reds won the first half last Sunday by besting the Meads 6-4 in Community Park. Another win Sunday would nail the pennant to the Ashville pole.

The Ashvillers copped the pennant last year by suffering only three defeats in 21 starts. Last year was only the second year in SCO baseball for the Reds. They finished at the bottom of the pile in 1946, their first year of league play.

Should Chillicothe win Sunday's tilt, tying the series at one win each, a final game will be played Oct. 3 on a neutral diamond.

Lineup for the Reds in Sunday's game is expepcted to be nearly the same as the lineup which has trimmed the Chillicotheans twice in a row:

Tracy (cf), C. Gulick (ss), Ankrom (3b), Noon (1b), Belcher (2b), Kirby (c), Harper lf), H. Gulick (rf), and Graves (p.

Metz Leading Canuck Open

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 24—Dick Metz headed into the third round of Vancouver's Canadian Open golf tournament today with a slim two-stroke lead over his nearest rivals for the winner's share of the $10,000 purse.

The dapper pro from Virginia Beach had a 138, six under par for 36 holes.

Right behind him at 140 were Herman Keiser, Springfield, Mo., and Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.

Flores' Bicycle Too Slow In Backward Jaunt

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — It is an axiom of the prize ring that nobody ever won a title riding a bicycle.

Jesse Flores of Stockton, Cal., learned this in Yankee Stadium last night.

Jesse pedaled backward at a furious rate until Ike Williams, the sad-panned lightweight champion caught up with him.

That was in the 10th round when a whistling right hand uppercut put the California Mexican on the deck for the full count.

Previously Jesse had hit the deck twice in the fifth round and twice more in the eighth for counts of nine, eight, nine and eight.

Short rights and lefts to the head were the motivating causes in each instance.

For a time the 15,413 cash customers, who appeared lost in the vast confines of the stadium, wondered if Flores could keep on running faster backwards than Williams could forward.

Confident Veeck Gives Data On Series Tickets

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians has announced that applications for World Series tickets will be accepted Tuesday.

Although the Tribe has not yet clinched the American League flag, A. B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, has given authorization for the printing of the tickets.

If the Indians cop the pennant, the third, fourth and fifth games will be played in Cleveland Municipal Stadium. The first two games will be played Oct. 6 and 7 in the National League pennant city.

In making the announcement, Veeck prepared a list of instructions for persons applying for tickets.

Applications should be made to the World Series Office, Cleveland Indians, Cleveland, 13, Ohio, with the applicant's full name and address printed on the letter and on a stamped envelope.

• • •

THE TRIBE prexy said that it is important that applicants sign their names in their own handwriting, and added that applications must be postmarked no earlier than 12:01 a. m. Tuesday.

Club officials said that orders will be taken for one, two, three or four tickets for the three games to be played in Cleveland. If the third game is not necessary, the money will be refunded.

Prices of tickets, which will be sold only in sets of three, will be $8 for box seats, and $6.25 for reserved seats. Bleacher seats will sell for $1 each and will not be sold before the day of the game.

Video To Show Series Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—East is east and west is west, and apparently the two will not meet this year when the World Series is played.

Because there is no link between east coast and midwest television networks, all games played in Boston or New York will be carried only by east coast video stations.

Games played in Cleveland will be seen over west coast television stations.

MISSOURI TO TAKE BUCKS?

Irish-Purdue Tilt Tops Football Opening Cards

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—Ohio State's Bucks faced the usual signal drill and other non-fatiguing tactics today with their season's opener against Missouri only 24 hours away.

Coach Wes Fesler tapered off a bit yesterday with a last minute review of everything the Bucks forlornly hope will slow down the raging Tigers.

With only three non-lettermen on his first and second teams, Don Faurot will find his Tigers heavily favored for the first time since the Buck-Missouri series began in 1939.

Missouri never has beaten the Bucks. The 1946 game was a 13-all tie, and last year the Bucks barely squeezed through with a 13-7 decision.

This looks like Missouri's year.

The Bucks, underdogs to begin with, have taken a beating from early season injuries. Ohio is very vulnerable at the ends, and that is where Faurot's offensive style causes a majority of plays to be directed.

• • •

SO BAD is the situation, in fact, that Chuck Gilbert, a junior varsity guard as late as last Spring, will start at right end. Fesler hopes Tom Watson, his intended No. 1 man at the position, will see some action, but Letterman Jimmy Haague is definitely lost with a broken hand.

All Western Conference football teams hit the 1948 touchdown trail tomorrow, with Indiana at Wisconsin in the official conference opener and Purdue at Notre Dame in the game of the day.

Two rugged juggernauts, veteran-heavy and spoiling for glory, hie westward, Northwestern for a crack at rugged UCLA in Los Angeles and Minnesota for its game with Washington at Seattle.

On the road, too, will be Michigan, fabulous conference, Rose Bowl and co-national champion of 1947, opening against Michigan State at East Lansing, in a game that may be tighter than a phone booth.

At home are Illinois, hosting Kansas State at Champaign, Iowa, greeting Marquette at Iowa City and Ohio State's completely question-mark brigade taking on Missouri.

Not even so provocative a card as that, however, can draw attention completely away from South Bend where the early-season spotlight holds a Notre Dame team that hasn't lost in 18 straight games and a Purdue club that outgained the great Irish team of a year ago and is back again—stronger.

The odds, officially, make Notre Dame the favorite at more than a touchdown.

Stu Holcomb, the Purdue coach, thinks if he can get by his lack of reserve strength and an admittedly tough schedule, the Boilermakers can really go. Tomorrow may do the talking for him.

Tribe Eyes Tiger Series In Flag Hope

Bosox, Yankees Plan 3 Games

DETROIT, Sept. 24—The Cleveland Indians were running neck-and-neck with the Boston Red Sox today as they made the final turn and started down the home stretch with a three-game series with the pesky Detroit Tigers.

For the three-game set with the Bengals, Manager Lou Boudreau is depending on his three mound aces—Bob Lemon, Gene Bearden and Bob Feller—to bring the Tribe out on top of the American League flag chase.

Meanwhile, the New Yorkers, who are but one game behind the Indians and Bosox, battle the Beantowners in a three-game series beginning today.

Although the Tigers are out of the race, Manager Steve O'Neill said that his boys "can still have a lot to say about who wins. We don't have our top batting strenth with our two best hitters out, but we're going good now and we have our best pitchers ready."

• • •

THE FOURTH place Pittsburgh Pirates were in immediate danger today of dropping out of the National League flag race.

The Bucs, eight games behind the idle Boston Braves are scheduled to go against the Cincinnati Reds in a night game tonight.

Pittsburgh has nine games left to play. If it loses to Cincinnati, the team will be mathematically eliminated from pennant competition.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals, seven games out of first with nine games remaining on their agenda, play the Cubs at Chicago.

The Braves, who are enjoying another day of rest, will send their ace hurlers—Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn—into a two-game series with New York opening Saturday.

The Giants didn't have much success against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday. The Brooks kept their flickering pennant hopes alive—one Brooklyn loss and they're ex-champions—by whacking the Giants, 7 to 1.

Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella slammed homeruns in the eighth to break the game open and give Lefty Joe Hatten his 13th win. Young Monte Kennedy took the loss.

Big John Mize tied Ralph Kiner for the National League homerun leadership by smacking his 39th circuit clout in the seventh inning.

In the only other game played in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds made their hits count and trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 2.

Ashville Reds Out After 2nd Half Of Flag

Ashville Reds will try for the second half of the South Central Ohio Baseball League pennant Sunday afternoon at the home of the Chillicothe Meads.

The Reds won the first half last Sunday by besting the Meads 6-4 in Community Park. Another win Sunday would nail the pennant to the Ashville pole.

The Ashvillers copped the pennant last year by suffering only three defeats in 21 starts. Last year was only the second year in SCO baseball for the Reds. They finished at the bottom of the pile in 1946, their first year of league play.

Should Chillicothe win Sunday's tilt, tying the series at one win each, a final game will be played Oct. 3 on a neutral diamond.

Lineup for the Reds in Sunday's game is expepcted to be nearly the same as the lineup which has trimmed the Chillicotheans twice in a row:

Tracy (cf), C. Gulick (ss), Ankrom (3b), Noon (1b), Belcher (2b), Kirby (c), Harper lf), H. Gulick (rf), and Graves (p.

Metz Leading Canuck Open

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 24—Dick Metz headed into the third round of Vancouver's Canadian Open golf tournament today with a slim two-stroke lead over his nearest rivals for the winner's share of the $10,000 purse.

The dapper pro from Virginia Beach had a 138, six under par for 36 holes.

Right behind him at 140 were Herman Keiser, Springfield, Mo., and Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.

Flores' Bicycle Too Slow In Backward Jaunt

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — It is an axiom of the prize ring that nobody ever won a title riding a bicycle.

Jesse Flores of Stockton, Cal., learned this in Yankee Stadium last night.

Jesse pedaled backward at a furious rate until Ike Williams, the sad-panned lightweight champion caught up with him.

That was in the 10th round when a whistling right hand uppercut put the California Mexican on the deck for the full count.

Previously Jesse had hit the deck twice in the fifth round and twice more in the eighth for counts of nine, eight, nine and eight.

Short rights and lefts to the head were the motivating causes in each instance.

For a time the 15,413 cash customers, who appeared lost in the vast confines of the stadium, wondered if Flores could keep on running faster backwards than Williams could forward.

Video To Show Series Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—East is east and west is west, and apparently the two will not meet this year when the World Series is played.

Because there is no link between east coast and midwest television networks, all games played in Boston or New York will be carried only by east coast video stations.

Games played in Cleveland will be seen over west coast television stations.

Confident Veeck Gives Data On Series Tickets

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians has announced that applications for World Series tickets will be accepted Tuesday.

Although the Tribe has not yet clinched the American League flag, A. B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball, has given authorization for the printing of the tickets.

If the Indians cop the pennant, the third, fourth and fifth games will be played in Cleveland Municipal Stadium. The first two games will be played Oct. 6 and 7 in the National League pennant city.

In making the announcement, Veeck prepared a list of instructions for persons applying for tickets.

Applications should be made to the World Series Office, Cleveland Indians, Cleveland, 13, Ohio, with the applicant's full name and address printed on the letter and on a stamped envelope.

• • •

THE TRIBE prexy said that it is important that applicants sign their names in their own handwriting, and added that applications must be postmarked no earlier than 12:01 a. m. Tuesday.

Club officials said that orders will be taken for one, two, three or four tickets for the three games to be played in Cleveland. If the third game is not necessary, the money will be refunded.

Prices of tickets, which will be sold only in sets of three, will be $8 for box seats, and $6.25 for reserved seats. Bleacher seats will sell for $1 each and will not be sold before the day of the game.

County Voters To Face 9 Tax Levies, 2 Bond Issues

Walnut Deal Largest On Ballot

Ag Society Asks $100,000 Booster

Two bond issues totalling $435,000 were filed with the Pickaway County board of election by deadline Thursday with passage to be decided in the Nov. 2 national election.

When the curtain dropped for filing petitions for tax levies on Sept. 15, a series of nine issues was posted along with a local option question in Tarlton.

Walnut Township voters will be facing a $225,000 bond issue question for the second time in two years while renewed school taxes are being sought in New Holland and Ashville districts.

Second largest bond issue was filed by the county commissioners who are seeking $210,000 for repair and replacement of 11 bridges and culverts hit in Walnut Township during a flood in June.

Funds are needed by the Walnut Township board of education to repair and remodel the present school and construct a fire proof addition to the existing structure complete with furnishings and equipment.

WALNUT Township voters last year defeated the bond issue when it came up for a decision at the polls.

Amid the confusion of the three-party ballot topped by presidential candidates Harry S. Truman, Thomas E. Dewey and Henry A. Wallace, voters here will confront a four page form.

Printing of the 16,050 ballots for Pickaway County voters is underway. The four-page ticket will be made up of national, state, judicial and local questions and issues.

Three important decisions recently handed down by State Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins on ballot marking has been received by board of election officials. They are:

1. A ballot that bears any marks other than "X' placed there by the voter is to be declared invalid and the entire ballot discarded without count.

2. A presidential ballot bearing an "X" in the shaded space at the top of the column in which the names of the 25 candidates for presidential elector appears and also an "X" in the circular space at the top of either the Democratic or Republican ticket should be counted as a vote for the presidential electors.

3. On the same ballot, an "X" carried in the circle at the top of either the Democratic or Republican ticket and also marked with an "X" in the rectangular space before the name of one or more of the 25 independent candidates for presidential elector should be carried as vote for the independent candidate.

A THIRD outstanding issue at stake in this November's election is a $100,000 tax levy petitioned by the Pickaway County Agriculture Society.

Officials of the society declared the money is needed for improvements and construction of new buildings on the Pickaway Fairgrounds.

A list of other tax levies to appear on the ballot this Fall follows:

Ashville village, a new one-mill levy; Pickaway Township, a two-mill new tax levy; Harrison Township, a new two-mill levy; Perry Township, a new three-mill tax; Monroe Township, two-mill new levy; and Wayne Township, three-mill new levy.

Democrats Taken To Task By Wallace

TOLEDO, Sept. 24 — Henry Wallace carried his Progressive party presidential campaign into Cleveland today after declaring that President Truman has covered "monopolistic activities with a smoke screen of fear and war."

The former vice president spoke Thursday night in Toledo, the first stop on his 28-day tour that will cover 8,500 miles and take him into 12 states. He told some 500 University of Toledo students:

"An almost unknown but striking example of subservience of the Truman administration to vested interests is the way it has handled the disclosure on war-time freight rate gouging."

The Progressive party candidate declared that Secretary of the Army Royal postponed indefinitely hearings on some 20-odd suits against the railroads on charges of illegal practices during the war because it would endanger national security. He added:

"This is nonsense. It is the shallow excuse for serving monopoly. It is in the best tradition of the Truman administration to cry 'national defense' to cloak acts which sap the strength of the American people."

Machines Work Farm Miracles At Rio Grande

GALLIPOLIS, Sept. 24 — A miracle of mechanized agriculture will have taken place at tiny Rio Grande college by nightfall.

By that time, 600 sweating, straining "on-the-job - training" agriculture students — using every soil saving tool known to man—will have transformed 300 acres of erosion-blasted land into a model operating dairy farm.

State highway patrolmen estimated that 7,500 people were on hand yesterday for this "Ohio Valley Second Frontier" when the young students with their monster machines performed feats that would take an average farmer two or three years.

Among other things, they dug conversion ditches to keep water from carrying away precious top soil, built two ponds with retention dams, laid drainage pipes and did other allied conservation work.

Farmers stood by, impressed, as they saw tools which could do in a few minutes a job which would take them weeks of back-breaking labor.

Conservation authorities picked this gently sloping bottom land on an Ohio River tributary for the demonstration because it contains virtually every type of land common to the midwest.

But until yesterday it was land with the life torn from it by years of usage coupled with the ruthless wear and tear of nature. Tomorrow it will rank among the most valuable farm lands in Ohio.

Council Plans Special Events

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24 — An outstanding series of special events planned by the Council on World Affairs, celebrating its 25th anniversary in 1948-49, were to be discussed by the program committee today in Cleveland.

Main point of the program will be a civic dinner Dec. 3, at which the speaker will be Sumner Welles, former under secretary of state.

The 1948-49 program for the council proper will begin Oct. 7 with the annual meeting at which officers and board members will be elected and a membership drive will be inaugurated.

NEW commanding officer for Ohio Army recruiting is Lt. Col. Albert C. Molter, above, who says the khaki-clad force still offers enlistments despite the peacetime draft program.

In losing 897 aircraft in combat during World War II, the U. S. Navy was making a record of losing only one plane to every 18 lost by its Japanese enemy, according to a recent study.

Sen. Kilgore Raps Congress

AKRON, Sept. 24 — United States Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia believes that the Republican members of the 80th Congress are "mere errand boys for the National Association of Manufacturers.

Sen. Kilgore touched off Summit County's Democratic campaign yesterday in Akron as he spoke to a Democratic organization at the YMCA last night and earlier addressed a group of young Democrats at the Elks' Club.

The senator lashed out at the GOP for what he termed "stalling" in the recent special session.

"The only thing done was approve a loan for construction of the United Nations headquarters in New York and then they called it quits," the senator asserted.

AKRON, Sept. 24 — United States Senator Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia believes that the Republican members of the 80th Congress are "mere errand boys for the National Association of Manufacturers.

Sen. Kilgore touched off Summit County's Democratic campaign yesterday in Akron as he spoke to a Democratic organization at the YMCA last night and earlier addressed a group of young Democrats at the Elks' Club.

The senator lashed out at the GOP for what he termed "stalling" in the recent special session.

"The only thing done was approve a loan for construction of the United Nations headquarters in New York and then they called it quits," the senator asserted.
